Surviving English 115:

The Living Rock Arthur Wilson,1994 This book concentrates on the social and economic effects that metals have had on community life and on wider historical developments It gives a fascinating perspective proclaiming that the history of metals is the history of civilization basing the text on the results of archeometallurgists and materials scientists and looking at the advancement of societies as a direct result of their new found technology The author s clear and lucid style prevents the book becoming aridly academic while he maps the course of ancient history through to medieval times and beyond showing metal to be ultimately the key to history

Littell's Living Age ,1878 Survival at Stalag IVB Tony Vercoe,2015-03-27 In addition to concentration camps World War II Germany was also home to 54 prisoner of war camps the largest of which was Stalag IVB Throughout the more than five years of its existence Stalag IVB supported numerous satellite camps eventually housing thousands of prisoners of many nationalities Here Poles French Belgians British Americans Dutch and Russians fought to survive in a place where life s most basic needs were barely fulfilled Interned in the camp for several months from late 1943 Tony Vercoe engaged in a struggle for life sanity and escape This historical chronicle evokes the heartbreaking reality of day to day life in Stalag IVB Rich with firsthand accounts by the author and other veterans of the camp it provides particulars regarding rations prisoner of war registration camp hygiene inmate activities and prisoner morale Special emphasis is placed on the role of the International Red Cross in prisoner survival and the multinational melting pot characteristics of the camp itself Possibilities of flight and the events that motivated prisoners daring escape attempts are discussed along with the consequences of their frequent failures Closing chapters detail the camp s final months and the prisoners long awaited deliverance
