Sustainable Community

Graham Stuart Meltzer, 2005 This book is about the previously unsubstantiated link between sustainability and community It is based on a ten year investigation of cohousing a popular new type of housing project that directly addresses both environmental degradation and social disintegration The book argues that social and environmental sustainability are inexorably linked Whilst the existence of this link is generally recognised there is little existing literature that offers empirical evidence to prove it In doing so the book uses case study data including 120 photographs 50 tables and 30 diagrams from twelve recent cohousing developments in Canada the USA New Zealand Australia and Japan concrete examples of working sustainable communities The book comprises two parts Part One introduces the twelve cohousing communities projects with distinct attributes of their own that highlight their diversity and cultural specificity Each is richly illustrated with photographs taken by the author who in addition to being an architect and scholar is a commercial photographer Part Two offers detailed comparative analysis based on substantive quantitative and qualitative data The strands of the analysis are eventually brought together in a holistic or ecological model the Community Empowerment Model The model is then utilised in a broader discussion of empowerment community development and ecologically sustainable development ESD The book is scholarly and authoritative yet accessible to a broad intelligent readership as an illustrated account of a fascinating cultural phenomenon It will be valuable to students of architecture planning sociology community psychology and environmental studies It will also be useful to architects planners and other professionals The book contains in depth information for participants in the growing cohousing ecovillage sustainability and communities movements It is well recognised that such activists face a scarcity of successful examples of sustainable communities from which to draw knowledge and inspiration This book will help fill that void

Sustainable Communities Sim Van der Ryn, Peter Calthorpe, 1986

Sustainable Communities Woodrow W. Clark II, 2010-01-12 This book would not have been possible without the dedication and commitment of each of the chapter authors For some authors writing a chapter was beyond their 9 5 job and this book reflects their commitment to sustainability at the local level for their communities To every chapter author and their staff friends and families thank you This dynamic and paradigm changing volume on the topic of sustainable development is focused on communities such as cities schools and colleges where the future of our families and children are most at risk We must act today as each of the chapters represents in their presentations This book marks a new era the Third Industrial Revolution The new age of the Third Industrial Revolution has been labeled by some as the green era or green economy but it had already started around the world especially in Europe and Japan for over a decade since the end of the 20th century More significantly the book highlights people and communities who have a shared concern and vision along with the will and determination to enact programs and policies that make sustainable development real not just political rhetoric or branding or even the current buzz word for obtaining funds and grants The book presents The Sequel to an Inconvenient Truth actual examples of how communities can and have changed in order to mitigate climate change Again thanks to everyone and their colleagues

Sustainable Communities, Sustainable Development Paul James, Yaso Nadarajah, Karen Haive, Victoria C. Stead, 2012-07-31 Papua New Guinea is going through a crisis A concentration on conventional approaches to development including an unsustainable reliance on mining forestry and foreign aid has contributed to the country's slow decline since independence in 1975 Sustainable Communities Sustainable Development attempts to address problems and gaps in the literature on development and develop a new qualitative conception of community sustainability informed by substantial and innovative research in Papua New Guinea In this context sustainability is conceived in terms that include not just practices tied to economic development It also informs questions of wellbeing and social integration community building social support and infrastructure renewal In short the concern with sustainability here entails undertaking an analysis of how communities are sustained through time how they cohere and change rather than being constrained within discourses and models of development From another angle this project presents an account of community sustainability detached from instrumental concerns with economic development Contributors address questions such as What are the stories and histories through which people respond to their nation's development What is the everyday social environment of groups living in highly diverse areas migrant settlements urban villages remote communities They seek to contribute to a creative and dynamic grass roots response to the demands of everyday life and local global pressures While the overdeveloped world faces an intersecting crisis created by global climate change and financial instability Papua New Guinea with all its difficulties still has the basis for responding to this manifold predicament Its secret lies in what has been seen as its weakness underdeveloped economies and communities where people still maintain sustainable relations to each other and the natural world

Sustainable Communities and Urban Housing Montserrat Pareja-Eastaway, Nessa Winston, 2020-12-18 Since the start of the twenty first century urban communities have faced increasing challenges in housing affordability with environmental issues causing additional concern It is clear that changes to urban housing are needed to enhance the resilience of cities and improve the economic social and physical well being of residents This book provides a comparative cross national perspective on urban housing and sustainability in Europe exploring the key barriers and drivers associated with sustainable urban development and community regeneration Country specific chapters allow for easy comparison with each summarizing how sustainable housing operates in the country in question before going on to discuss the key barriers and drivers at play This book brings a sustainability perspective to the comparative housing literature which frequently fails to integrate the social economic and environmental pillars of sustainability The book outlines many of the changes that professionals and residents will need to make to their practices and cultures in order to enhance housing resilience Students researchers and professionals with an interest in sustainable housing creation and regeneration will find this book an invaluable reference
