

The Story of Anzac Day

Australia and New Zealand are close together and the two countries help each other when needed.

The first we helped each other when they, long time ago during the First World War. New Zealand and Australia fought together in the Gallipoli and New Zealand Army Corps (NZAC). A war is when countries fight with each other. In the First World War, most countries fought with the fighting and it lasted for four years.

There are people who work in special jobs that help them to help during times of war. This is called our defence force and can include people from the Army, the Navy and the Airforce. The Army has soldiers who work to protect our countries on the ground. The Navy has sailors who usually work on ships and submarines to protect our countries. The Airforce has pilots who fly aeroplanes and protect our countries from the sky.

The Story of Anzac Day

Remember those who fought for us by celebrating Anzac Day which was the day our first arrived in Gallipoli in 1915.

who fought died or were injured in that war during that time. We are able to travel and see others we work to, ships, planes, our jobs and manage our own lives. Some light were given special medals to honour their bravery. There are Anzac Day during the special services that are Australia and New Zealand. Typically, in New Zealand, it is with the Dawn Service. This is a service that is often in a hall that makes it easy to special moments. There are memorials in the houses that tell their story. With of people are lost in the war memorials. People that families to them after the battle in France and they are seen as a symbol of honour and respect in "Anzac Day" is a special day in New Zealand. There is a special flag in New Zealand's colours. There are special services in New Zealand.
