

Symbiotic Stars

A Symbiotic Star is binary containing a red giant with emission lines.

In many cases, there is a white dwarf accreting from the giant, producing a blue continuum that ionizes the wind and other circumstellar matter.

Some Symbiotic Stars are also recurrent novae: once every several decades or so, they undergo thermonuclear runaway.

This talk concentrates on those symbiotic stars with a white dwarf companion (others, e.g., GX 1+4, have a neutron star companion)

Symbiotic Stars:

The Nature of Symbiotic Stars M. Friedjung, Roberto Viotti, 2012-12-06 Many aspects of symbiotic stars have long puzzled astronomers. For instance, while most students of the subject have considered them binary, many have at different times supported single star models. The nature of their outbursts is uncertain while the dividing line between symbiotic stars and novae is unclear. In any case, doubts can even be raised as to whether a class of Symbiotic Stars really exists. Much new data has been obtained in recent years, in particular from the study of radiation outside the visual region. Many symbiotic stars have been studied in the UV with IUE since 1978 while X-rays were detected in a few cases with the Einstein satellite. There have been a number of infrared and radio studies and the number of known symbiotic stars has also considerably increased. Furthermore, theoretical ideas have in recent years been considerably enriched by concepts of stellar winds and accretion phenomena in binaries including accretion disks. It was therefore extremely opportune and timely to hold the first international meeting exclusively devoted to these stars so as to consider the new results from such a wide range of observations in different spectral regions and the conclusions which can be drawn for possible models as well as theories of the nature and structure of symbiotic stars. After a session devoted to new observations in different spectral regions, a session was spent considering some individual stars.

Symbiotic Stars Nancy Ann Oliverson, 1982 The Symbiotic Stars S. J. Kenyon, 1986-12-18 Dr Kenyon has researched and assembled here all the existing data for the known symbiotic stars in which a dwarf star accretes material from its red giant companion. In this book he summarises observational material covering the eruptive and quiescent phases of these objects and emphasises the important astrophysical problems raised and resolved by results at infrared, optical, radio, ultraviolet and X-ray wavelengths. Physical models for the eruptive and quiescent phases and the long term evolution of symbiotic stars are discussed with the goal of developing observational diagnostics that serve to test the basic theories. The book concludes with a detailed appendix and bibliography that will aid researchers interested in the history of individual symbiotic systems and confirm this volume as an indispensable handbook at any observatory where research on stellar objects is undertaken.

The Realm of Interacting Binary Stars Jorge Sahade, George E. McCluskey, Yoji Kondo, 1993 More than two centuries have elapsed since the story of interacting binary stars began with the rediscovery of the variability of Algol by John Goodricke and the interpretation he proposed for explaining the regular periodic brightness variations which he found. Symposium International Astronomical Union, 1993 Evolution in Astrophysics European Space
