development of new molecular and genetic technologies combined with ambitious goals to explore the structure and function of genomes of higher organisms has generated however not only a huge and burgeoning body of data but also a new class of scientific questions. The nature and complexity of these questions will require beyond establishing a new kind of alliance between experimental and theoretical disciplines also the development of new generations both in computer software and hardware technologies respectively. New theoretical procedures combined with powerful computational facilities will substantially extend the horizon of problems that genome research can attack with success. Many of us still feel that computational models rationalizing experimental findings in genome research fulfil their promises more slowly than desired. There also is an uncertainty concerning the real position of a theoretical genome research in the network of established disciplines integrating their efforts in this field.
