Story Kate Smith Adams,2019-11-23 On the 25th of May 1968 a four year old boy named Martin Brown was playing outside with his friends in the Scotswood area of Newcastle Tragically this would be the last day of Martin s short life Martin was found upstairs on the floor in a derelict house by three children He was dribbling saliva from his mouth and looked inert On the 31st of July three year old Brian Howe was watching the demolition of houses in Scotswood He was never seen alive again Brian was found by the police just after 11 pm He was lying dead between two concrete blocks Some of his hair had been snipped off and there were puncture wounds on his legs and pressure marks on his nose The police reopened the investigation into the death of Martin Brown and eventually reached a shocking conclusion The serial killer responsible for these deaths was a pretty blue eyed eleven year old girl named Mary Bell It would become one of the strangest and most unfathomable cases in British criminal history But Mary Bell didn t come out of nowhere She was well known to the police and the authorities long before she became famous in the worst possible way Here then is the complete story of Mary Flora Bell The True Story The Federal Cases ,1894 Shadows on Scotswood Stu Armstrong,2024-11-02 Following her conviction Mary was initially held in a remand home in Durham before being moved to another facility in South Norwood In early 1969 she was transferred to Red Bank Secure Unit in Newton le Willows Merseyside As the only girl among 24 young offenders she endured a deeply isolating experience cut off from the outside world Later Mary alleged that during her time at Red Bank she was subjected to sexual abuse by both staff members and fellow inmates beginning when she was just 13 years old This traumatic environment further darkened her young life echoing the abuse she d suffered in her childhood In November 1973 at age 16 Mary was transferred to the secure wing of HM Prison Styal in Cheshire Here her frustration with the system grew as Styal was a more regimented institution designed for adult women Mary reportedly resented the transfer and applied for parole though her application was denied Over the years the possibility of freedom seemed increasingly remote especially as her past haunted her even within these secure walls Three years later in June 1976 Mary was moved to Moor Court open prison This facility marked a notable change as it allowed her greater freedom including the opportunity to take a secretarial course But the pressures and confinement continued to weigh heavily on her and in September 1977 she made a daring attempt to escape with fellow inmate Annette Priest The two girls absconded to Blackpool spending several days visiting amusement parks and staying in local hotels under assumed names Mary even dyed her hair blonde and used the alias Mary Robinson to evade detection After a few days authorities tracked her down to a Derbyshire address where she was arrested on September 13 Following this brief escape she was returned to custody at Moor Court where her punishment included a 28 day loss of privileges This incident only underscored her restlessness and the struggles of reconciling with her past By June 1979 as she neared adulthood the Home Office decided to move Mary to HM Prison Askham Grange an open category prison intended to help her reintegrate into society In November of that year she began working as a secretary and later took a job as a caf waitress under close supervision These activities were intended to gradually reacclimate her to the world outside For the first time in years she experienced a glimpse of independence building the skills she would need after her release Finally in May 1980 at age 23 Mary Bell was granted release from Askham Grange after serving nearly eleven and a half years in custody With the help of a lifelong anonymity order and a new identity she sought to rebuild her life On the day of her release a spokesperson noted Bell wishes to be given a chance to live a normal life and to be left alone a plea underscoring the difficult path she now faced Though legally freed she would carry the burden of her past indefinitely marked by the stigma of her crimes and the trauma she had both suffered and caused Despite her new identity and fresh start

Century Illustrated Monthly Magazine ... ,1892      MARY BELL Katherine Smith,2020-12-01 The case of Mary Bell shocked the nation in 1968 In the city of Newcastle an eleven year old girl was responsible for the death of two young boys who were not much more than toddlers The method of death was strangulation squeezing of the neck and both tragic incidents took place on derelict land where massive slum housing clearances were under way The girl responsible for the murders was Mary Flora Bell a darkly angelic looking child who never seemed to show any sign of emotion The case of Mary Bell as it drifts further and further into the past is like a nightmarish folk memory that refuses to ever completely fade It is a strange and tragic story that will probably never lose its enduring and morbid fascination
