Zhu, 2018-02-15 In the 21st century China has become impossible to ignore At the same time a vast array of perceptions and judgments of China's actions and future have arisen The confusion Leah Zhu postulates is explained by decades of traditional modus operandi which began in the Maoist Era and misconceives China as a collectivist culture This book however seeks to re explore thousands of years of China's history to demonstrate the country's adherence to an alternative principle relationalism Tracing the pervasive power of relationalism before and after Maoism it examines the major aspects of Chinese culture including politics sociology psychology and diplomacy In doing so it reveals the power of relationalism as the core frame of reference behind contemporary Chinese beliefs and practices Furthermore armed with this newly established framework this book ultimately provides a helpful analysis of China's past political economic and judiciary reforms and of how they are faring under the control of the current regime Featuring extensive evidence and analysis of Chinese culture from ancient rites through to the 21st century this book will be invaluable to students and scholars of Chinese culture politics and society It will also appeal to social scientists and sociologists more broadly      The China Review, Or, Notes and

Discourses of Race and Rising China Yinghong Cheng, 2019-02-06 This book is a critical study of the development of a racialised nationalism in China exploring its unique characteristics and internal tensions and connecting it to other forms of global racism The growth of this discourse is contextualised within the party state's political agenda to seek legitimacy in various groups efforts to carve their demands in a divided national community and has directly affected identity politics across the global diasporic Chinese community While there remains considerable debate in both academic literature and popular discussion about how the concept of race is relevant to Chinese expressions of identity Cheng makes a forceful case for the appropriateness of biological and familial narratives of descent for understanding Chinese nationalism today Grounded in a strong conceptual framework and substantiated with rich materials Discourses of Race and Rising China will be an important contribution to international studies of racism and will appeal to academics and students of contemporary China historians of modern China and those who work in the fields of critical race ethnicity and cultural studies The China Review, Or, Notes and Queries on the Far East Nicholas Belfield Dennys, Ernest John Eitel, William C. Barlow, James Dyer Ball, 1875 Global Challenges in Cardiovascular Prevention in Populations with Low Socioeconomic Status Tomás Romero, Carolina Nazzari Nazal, Fernando Lanas, 2025-01-30 Cardiovascular Prevention CVP has included important technological advances and determined improvements in morbidity and mortality since the last 70 and 60 years However in populations with socioeconomic limited resources even basic health preserving tools such as access to a primary care provider and basic drug therapy for diabetes mellitus high blood pressure and high cholesterol are not within the reach of many There is indeed limited information on the level of CVP available in low income countries and even in similar segments of deprived populations from high income nations More information is needed in the prevalence and outcomes in these socioeconomic groups on the major determinants of cardiovascular disease and death hypertension diabetes obesity heart failure coronary heart disease stroke peripheral vascular disease and multi organ involvement Moreover in many countries and not only in those with limited socioeconomic resources basic preventive measures are still lagging behind weight control healthy diet sedentary lifestyles smoking cessation alcohol use In this book contributors will review the prevalence of these risk factors as well as discuss possible remedial measures In the different chapters scientists from different countries and regions and with extensive research done in CVP in their respective fields will give their views on the status of CVP and suggest feasible remedial steps Currently there are many publications on the exciting and more recent developments in CVP and the new directions undertaken polygenic risk scores primordial prevention new antilipidemic and anti inflammatory therapies etc This book in contrast will go precisely in the opposite direction defining the most basic and known effective CVP tools applied in the largest segment of the world s population This will be a valuable resource for students and professionals from different specialties such as primary care providers cardiologists registered nurses public health professionals social workers and economists It will also be of interest to readers in the graduate and undergraduate levels To ensure broad accessibility an open access option is available for those with limited financial resources The Chinese Heart in a Cognitive Perspective Ning Yu, 2009-02-26 This book is a cognitive semantic study of the Chinese conceptualization of the heart traditionally seen as the central faculty of cognition The concept of HEART encoded in the word xin lies at the core of Chinese thought and medicine and its importance to Chinese culture is extensively manifested in the Chinese language. The study explores this important concept and its cultural models along both diachronic and synchronic dimensions and with a cross cultural perspective. The Chinese Classics, 1895. Overseas Chinese, Ethnic Minorities and Nationalism Elena Barabantseva, 2010-09-13 Elena Barabantseva looks at the close relationship between state led nationalism and modernisation with specific reference to discourses on the overseas Chinese and minority nationalities. The interplay between modernisation programmes and nationalist discourses has shaped China's national project whose membership criteria have evolved historically. By looking specifically at the ascribed roles of China's ethnic minorities and overseas Chinese in successive state led modernisation efforts, this book offers new perspectives on the changing boundaries of the Chinese nation. It places domestic nation building and transnational identity politics in a single analytical framework and examines how they interact to frame the national project of the Chinese state. By exploring the processes taking place at the ethnic and territorial margins of the Chinese nation state, the author provides a new perspective on China's national modernisation project, clarifying the processes occurring across national boundaries and illustrating how China has negotiated the basis for belonging to its national project under the challenge to modernise amid both domestic and global transformations. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of Asian politics, Chinese politics, nationalism, transnationalism and regionalism.

Advertising and Consumer Culture in China Hongmei Li, 2016-09-06 This book provides a comprehensive analysis of Chinese advertising as an industry, a discourse and a profession in China's search for modernity and cultural globalization. It compares and contrasts the advertising practices of Chinese advertising agencies and foreign advertising agencies and Chinese brands and foreign brands with a particular focus on the newest digital advertising practices in the post WTO era. Based on extensive interviews, participant observation and a critical analysis of secondary data, Li offers an engaging analysis of the transformation of Chinese advertising in the past three decades in Post Mao China. Drawing upon theories of political economy, media and cultural studies, her analysis offers most significant insights in advertising and consumer culture as well as the economic, social, political and cultural transformations in China. The book is essential for students and scholars of communication, media, cultural studies and international business and all those interested in cultural globalization and China.

It shows how the images presented primarily to domestic audiences are in step with China's party state nationalism and at the same time flexible and open to change as China's circumstances change. The book contextualises identity construction in the media by examining the development of television in China and the political struggles between provincial and national television stations as well as by foregrounding the historical and contemporary role of musical culture in China's nation building project. It discusses the portrayal of the majority Han Chinese and of ethnic minorities and their music which the author argues are shown as fitting with the party state rhetoric of a unitary multi ethnic state. It also outlines how the Chinese of Greater China Hong Kong Taiwan Macao and the overseas Chinese are incorporated into a mainland centred Chinese identity. In addition it shows how the performances of foreign personalities on the Chinese television stage emphasise foreigners attraction to China the uniqueness of the Chinese nation and Chinese civilisation and the revitalised role of China in the world. Overall the book demonstrates how the variations of Chinese identity fit with prevailing political ideologies in China and with the emerging theme of a China centred world.
