Bedouins of the Empty Quarter Donald Powell Cole, 2017-07-28 This volume describes Bedouins a tribal pastoral people in eastern Saudia Arabia This volume documents changes in their way of life beginning in the 1930s and continuing to the 1960s when this book originally appeared The

Empty Quarter described here is a place inhabited by a people so thoroughly devoted to their pastoral pursuits that they are referred to as nomads of the nomads To the Al Murrah and other camel keeping pastoralists theirs is a rich and rewarding life For either to survive men and camels must live in close symbiosis The camels provide food fiber and transport man provides knowledge of available resources of which the most precious are water and the grasses that grow where rains have fallen In this work Donald Powell Cole shows us that this existence more complex and intricate There is the complex knowledge of the desert itself its varieties moods and resources Next there is the knowledge of the camels their needs capacities and the peculiarities of each animal These different kinds of knowledge must be brought together to fully use yet carefully conserve scarce resources As important is the structuring of social life The tribesmen must have a flexible social system that enables the individual household to operate alone when the environmental situation requires This necessitates a pattern of independence and equality The Al Murrah live according to ancient traditions but life is not unchanging In 1932 Saudi Arabia became a nation and intertribal raiding and warfare was brought to an end Cole highlights the adaptability of the Al Murrah as the desert became increasingly invaded by motor transport and oil rigs He sees their experience as prototypical man everywhere must attune his life to the requirements of his economy In a place like the Arabian Desert these adjustments are most insistent This work shows that even when these demands of the external world pervade behavior life can remain rich and rewarding
