Epidemiology and the Delivery of Health Care Services Denise M. Oleske, 2007-05-08 In the previous edition of this book the predominant theme was applying epidemiology to assist managers in dealing with an environment in which the structure of health care financing was rapidly changing to managed care and in which there was increasing competition among health care providers While these phenomena continue to exist new challenges have emerged and in particular the explosion of information technology has given way to a global society and decision making that is increasingly shared with consumers because of their access to the same sets of data Thus the questions with which health care managers are confronted on a daily basis are now exceedingly more complex 1 How can a population be defined considering that both exposures and diseases originating in one corner of the globe can rapidly become a threat to any nation s security 2 Where do influences on a population begin and end 3 How can we protect and promote health in that population or any population if privacy is preeminent This edition brings in this editor s view of the increasing need for health care managers be they in private or public settings to use epidemiological concepts and methods The challenges posed by health care delivery in the 21st century are immense ranging from redefining life and health given the advances in genetic technology global environmental changes and multinational simultaneous increases in poverty and longevity to economic decisions regarding technology and service levels that fewer and fewer can afford EPA Publications Bibliography Quarterly Abstract Bulletin United States.

Lowry, 2012-12-06 had a dream My dream was to assemble the current and future leaders in surgery and ask them to develop an evidence based surgical textbook that would provide the reader with the most up to date and relevant information on which to base decisions in modern surgical practice In other words the dream was to create the best most comprehensive textbook of surgery Fortunately I met Laura Gillan of Springer Verlag New York who had a similar dream As our editor she has provided the foundation and structure for this dream She has made this dream a reality Because surgery is a highly specialized and diverse discipline with significant complexity I also needed a commitment from outstanding surgeons to serve as coeditors I was fortunate to have a diverse group of exceptional young in spirit energetic cutting edge surgical investigators share in this project and I wish to thank them for their invaluable contribution to this undertaking The Editorial Board including Randy Bollinger Fred Chang Steve Lowry Sean Mulvihill Harvey Pass and Robert Thompson met for the first time at the American College of Surgeons meeting in Chicago in October 1997 Fig 1 There this book was conceived Each of us developed the plan and content for his specific surgical discipline The common thread is that all decisions and recommendations are based on the best available evidence and that the reader can clearly see the evidence in our Evidence based tables specifically marked for the reader's reference
