Freeman,2025-06-01 Originally published in 1958 as a third edition in 1967 and revised fourth edition in 1974 this established text discusses the challenges of physical and regional geography to planners and studies the relationship between geography economics and change in both urban and rural settings It reflects the increasing concern in the late 20th Century with the environment and quality of life The author argues strongly that there must be three related orders of planning national regional and local because the building of a better Britain depends on work done in detail at street and field level with the geographical basis of planning being clear in such work At a time when the UK government is considering an overhaul of the planning system in order to meet house building targets and climate change is having a real impact on land use many of the issues raised in this book are as relevant now as they were when it was first published      The Geographical Magazine ,1986      Fieldwork in Geography: Reflections, Perspectives and Actions Rod Gerber,Goh Kim Chuan,2013-03-14 Geographers regard fieldwork as a vital instrument for understanding our world through direct experience for gathering basic data about this world and as a fundamental method for enacting geographical education The range of international geography and educational experts who contributed to this volume has demonstrated that the concept of fieldwork has a considerable history in the field of geography They have demonstrated that the theoretical aspects of fieldwork have been interpreted differently in regions around the world but the importance of fieldwork remains strong globally A fresh look at the pedagogic implications for fieldwork in formal education offers ideas both for promoting it in geographical education and for maintaining its place in the geography curriculum Audience Forward looking geographers and educators now recognise that alternative strategies especially those involving the use of information technology should be developed to reaffirm the centrality of fieldwork in geographical and wider education
