The Christian God:

The Christian God Richard Swinburne,1994-10-06 What is it for there to be a God and what reason is there for supposing him to conform to the claims of Christian doctrine In this pivotal volume of his tetralogy Richard Swinburne builds a rigorous metaphysical system for describing the world and applies this to assessing the worth of the Christian tenets of the Trinity and the Incarnation Part I is dedicated to analysing the categories needed to address accounts of the divine nature these are substance cause time and necessity Part II begins by setting out in terms of these categories the fundamental doctrine of Western religions that there is a God After pointing out some of the different ways in which this doctrine can be developed Swinburne spells out the simplest possible account of divine nature He then goes on to clarify the implications of this account for the specifically Christian doctrines of the Trinity that God is three persons in one substance and of the Incarnation that God became incarnate in Jesus Christ Swinburne finds that there are good reasons to believe the Christian additions to the core Western idea of God The Christian God builds upon Swinburne's acclaimed previous work to form a self contained text which will no doubt become a classic in the philosophy of religion

The Christian God Augustine Shutte,2024-10-31 The Christian God presents South African philosopher Augustine Shutte's understanding of his Christian faith Through a chronological series of essays written over a period of fifty years we are invited to trace the development of this theology and its application to a wide variety of topics In an entertaining introductory chapter Shutte explains the provenance of each essay and the intention of the author at the time A final chapter is a reflection by the editor Patrick Giddy on the import of Shutte's theological development drawing upon unpublished notebook entries and on his religious poetry

The God Who Is Hans Schwarz,2011-01-01 Who is the God in whom Christians believe Is he just a figment of the human mind as critics of religion claimed in the nineteenth century and as crusading atheists assert again today Since the beginnings of rational thought the brightest minds among humanity have attempted to assert that God does indeed exist But even the so called proofs for God's existence always started with the assumption that there is someone to prove As soon as we move beyond that which is within space and time mere proofs or disproofs no longer suffice Both believers and unbelievers live to a certain degree by faith Yet religion is inextricably connected with human history When we journey through the landscape of religion and witness its gradual unfolding we soon realize that not all religions are equal Though they may be witnesses of the same God the way they talk about God is so different that this not only leads to very different concepts of God but also to different approaches to life on this earth At the end of this long journey we finally arrive at the Judeo Christian tradition which witnesses to the God in whom Christians believe This book seeks to show how this belief matured and what difference this belief still makes today

Rock of Ages John Butler,2013-06-27 Far from being the immutable Rock of Ages He is often assumed to be the God of Christian history and tradition has had many different and often conflicting faces Rock of Ages opens with the emergence of the Biblical God from the pantheon of deities in bronze age Canaan and culminates in the radical images of God that were appearing at the end of the twentieth century providing a historical overview of the different and sometimes conflicting ways in which He has been understood By examining the ideas of key writers down the ages whose ecclesiastical or intellectual power has allowed their insights to become embedded in the mainstream traditions of the Christian churches Butler seeks to answer one central question Why is it that people across the ages have claimed to have seen so many different and sometimes contradictory faces of the Christian God Or more specifically If there is one true God and if He is known to those who believe in him through the revelation of Himself in history why hasn't a consistent and unified understanding of Him emerged in the witness and testimony of those who claim to have seen his face In the best of scholarly traditions Butler presents his work as a clear account of his own quest for an answer but although suggesting possibilities he leaves others to come to their own judgements using the evidence available Written in a clear and attractive style this is a book for anyone without any prior knowledge of history theology or philosophy be they atheists Christians looking to explore their faith students or simply anyone interested in the history of religion Hindu God, Christian God

Wounds: Hermeneutic of the Christian Symbol of Divine Suffering, Volume One Jeff B. Pool,2009-01-01 This book constitutes the first volume of a three volume study of Christian testimonies to divine suffering God's Wounds Hermeneutic of the Christian Symbol of Divine Suffering Divine Vulnerability and Creation This study first develops an approach to interpreting the contested claims about the suffering of God. Thus the larger study focuses its inquiry into the testimonies to divine suffering themselves seeking to allow the voices that attest to divine suffering to speak freely to discover and elucidate the internal logic or rationality of this family of testimonies rather than defending these attestations against the dominant claims of classical Christian theism that have historically sought to eliminate such language altogether from Christian discourse about the nature and life of God. Through this approach this volume of studies into the Christian symbol of divine suffering then investigates the two major presuppositions that the larger family of testimonies to divine suffering normally hold: an understanding of God through the primary metaphor of love (God is love) and an understanding of the human as created in the image of God with a life though finite analogous to the divine life (the imago Dei as love). When fully elaborated, these presuppositions reveal the conditions of possibility for divine suffering and divine vulnerability with respect to creation.

The Christ- Like God John V. Taylor,2012-12-06 The central thesis of The Christlike God is that Jesus is the reflection in human life of the being of God John Taylor begins by pointing out how few religious people or non religious people ever stop and think about God but tend to live with an unconscious stereotype He discusses throughout the text how we acquire our idea of God the nature of revelation experience and the range of reflection on God both within and out with the Christian tradition Bishop John Taylor was one of the twentieth century's leading Anglican missionary statesmen An ecumenist Africanist and theologian of international repute he served as a General Secretary of the Church Missionary Society at a crucial stage in its development and later became Bishop of Windsor The Divine Image Ian Alexander McFarland, Theologian Ian McFarland claims that Christians have mainly misappropriated the image of God language for 2000 years and thereby missed a rich resource for our knowledge of God What then does it mean to say that we are made in God's image or that Christ is the very image or prototype of God Rather than referring to some germinal divine element in humans such as reason McFarland claims that the image of God in us tells us something about God and how we know God It tells us that God though not identical with us communicates Godself to us in creative love in a way that offers precious clues about God's transcendence immanence triune life self disclosure incarnation and intentions for human life Too we learn from Jesus something new about God Gathered as Christ's body the church too images God and sets us on a quest to discern the image of God in Christ's incarnate body McFarland's careful and exacting work builds from this kernel a powerful Christian vision of God's life and our own destiny in Christ
