The Health Of The Elderly In Hong Kong:

The Health of the Elderly in Hong Kong Shiu-kum Lam,1997-06-01 9 79E 12 Ageing with Dignity in Hong Kong and Asia Vincent Tin Sing Law,Ben Yuk Fai Fong,2022-09-12 This book advocates the application of holistic and humanistic approaches in elderly care and services to achieve the goal of ageing with dignity in Hong Kong and Asia It responds to the needs of an increasing ageing population that has to deal with related health needs in long term care community health and social services particularly for chronic conditions and psychosocial support The book consists of three sections on policy and development of aged care holistic and humanistic care for older adults and capacity building for ageing with dignity respectively Topics include the latest initiatives in aged care appropriate services and delivery models lifestyle modification psychosocial and environmental considerations professional development technologies and social capital The chapters review and discuss these issues within a global context illustrated by examples from Asian countries underpinned by locally based empirical research Contributors include academics and practitioners from diversified professional backgrounds that include medicine nursing pharmacy traditional Chinese medicine dietetics and allied health The book traverses into territories in the social sciences life sciences and sports sciences while also touching on areas of business and administration hospitality law public policy and information technology in connection with public health The contents serve as a topical reference for tertiary studies in ageing and related disciplines such as well being and are also useful to policymakers community and public health practitioners health executives and interns working in areas of policy and practice pertinent to care development health delivery models planning quality ethics better health promotion professional training and monitoring for older adults Sustainable Development Goal 3 Ben Y. F. Fong,Vincent T. S. Law,2021-12-24 Sustainable Development Goals SDGs aim to develop a better and sustainable future for the world and the goals are part of an action plan to address poverty hunger health gender equity and various pressing world issues One of these goals looks at health and wellness Ageing populations have become a crucial issue worldwide and this short monograph explores ageing and how the consequences of an ageing population may affect our healthcare system through a case study on Hong Kong's population The book looks at several critical health issues related to ageing The elderly particularly those with low socio economic status rely more on acute centric care rather than primary care The book suggests that secondary care service may only be effective to a limited extent as a healthcare measure and an optimum healthcare system should be one that focuses on primary care The authors put forth a compelling argument for disease prevention and screening schemes and explain how they are more cost effective and beneficial to society and the system This thoughtful book will provide beneficial insights into the relationship of ageing and Sustainable Development Goals in the context of health and wellness for policymakers and healthcare professionals The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0

Aging in Hong Kong Jean Woo, 2012-09-06 With the longest life expectancy for men and the second longest for women, Hong Kong typifies our planet's aging population. The daily lives of its older adults closely match the advantages and disadvantages experienced by urban elders in other developed countries. For these reasons, Hong Kong's elderly serve as a salient guide to older people's social, psychological, and healthcare needs. Concerns of increasing importance as the world grows older, Aging in Hong Kong examines this emblematic population as a case study specifically in comparison with their counterparts in the West, shedding light on diverse, interrelated currents in the aging experience. Referencing numerous international studies, the book contrasts different health service arrangements and social factors and relates them to a variety of health outcomes. Its wide ranging coverage documents health and illness trends, reviews age friendly policy initiatives, relates health literacy to patients' active role in their own care, and discusses elders as an underserved group in the division of limited health funding and resources. This multiple focus draws readers' attention to policies that need revisiting or retooling as chapters analyze major life areas including Living environment, Retirement and post retirement, employment issues, Financial asset management, Health literacy regarding aging issues, Elder positive service delivery models, Ageism in the prioritization of healthcare, End of life issues. By assembling such a wealth of data on its subject, Aging in Hong Kong puts ongoing challenges into clear focus for gerontologists sociologists health and cross cultural psychologists public health policymakers and others involved in improving the quality of elders lives A Health Survey of the Elderly in Hong Kong Iris Chi,Jik-Joen Lee,University of Hong Kong.
