From Ulster to America Michael Montgomery, 2006 From Ulster to America documents nearly four hundred terms and meanings each with quotations from both sides of the Atlantic contributed to American English by these eighteenth century settlers from Ulster Drawing on letters they sent back to their homeland and on other archival documents associated with their settlement it shows that Ulster emigrants and their children contributed as much to regional American English as any other group The numerous quotations bring alive the speech of earlier days on both sides of the Atlantic and extend understanding of the culture mannerisms and life of those pioneering times

Tall Tales from Old Smoky C. Hodge Mathes, 2011-06-01 It was another time another place but the people Hodge Mathes wrote about were real As noted by Mildred Mathes Dalton her father was visiting and writing about the Elizabethan culture in the Southern Appalachians long before it became academically fashionable to record and preserve the folklore of such ethnic groups Attracted to the untamed wilderness of the Great Smoky Mountains he and his colleagues spent many hours exploring the region The people of the mountains became his friends and he wrote with sensitive understanding of their loves their hates their adventures and their problems These stories by Dr Mathes were originally published in various magazines from 1923 to 1936 The passing of time changed forever the people and land of Appalachia Fortunately this collection has been preserved so that we can share and enjoy the author's stories of those hardy souls who lived there in independent isolation during the early decades of this century

Humphris, 2011-03-29 The Life Of Fred Archer By E M Humphris A biography of England's most famous jockey Preface The author has flatteringly asked me to write a preface to this book on the famous Fred Archer and as I knew him well and saw him ride a vast number of his races it gives me great pleasure to do so and I commence by speaking of the five Derbys he won all of which I witnessed Archer had his first Derby success on Silvio who started at 100 to 9 in 1877 and after a pretty finish won by half a length from Glen Arthur both the pair outstaying the favourite Rob Roy who was beaten three quarters of a length for second place with Rhidorroch fourth a head behind Mr Mackenzie's colt His next win at Epson was in 1880 when he rode a most remarkable race on Bend Or as he was greatly handicapped by having his arm badly injured through Muley Edris savaging him after he had ridden that ill tempered brute in a gallop on Newmarket Heath a short time before and also by Bend Or coming badly down the hill to Tattenham Corner owing to having sore shins Archer for all that rode with such judgement that bringing his mount with one long run he caught Robert the Devil on whom Rossiter certainly should have won as the race was run in the last two strides to beat him by a head Originally published in 1934 Many of the earliest books particularly those dating back to the 1900s and before are now extremely scarce and increasingly expensive Obscure Press are republishing these classic works in affordable high quality modern editions using the original text and artwork
