Tara's Child Susan Kearney,2000      The Phantom Holocaust Olga Gershenson,2013-07-15 Even people familiar with cinema believe there is no such thing as a Soviet Holocaust film The Phantom Holocaust tells a different story The Soviets were actually among the first to portray these events on screens In 1938 several films exposed Nazi anti Semitism and a 1945 movie depicted the mass execution of Jews in Babi Yar Other significant pictures followed in the 1960s But the more directly filmmakers engaged with the Holocaust the more likely their work was to be banned by state censors Some films were never made while others came out in such limited release that the Holocaust remained a phantom on Soviet screens Focusing on work by both celebrated and unknown Soviet directors and screenwriters Olga Gershenson has written the first book about all Soviet narrative films dealing with the Holocaust from 1938 to 1991 In addition to studying the completed films Gershenson analyzes the projects that were banned at various stages of production The book draws on archival research and in depth interviews to tell the sometimes tragic and sometimes triumphant stories of filmmakers who found authentic ways to represent the Holocaust in the face of official silencing By uncovering little known works Gershenson makes a significant contribution to the international Holocaust filmography      Tara's Forgotten Son Lana Mowdy,2007-11 Wade Hampton Hamilton has grown up at Tara and now must break free from the hold of his tormented past      Chandra and Tara: Genesis of Chandravansh H. Derek Katz, 2009 This contextual study of Janček's operas reveals the composer's creative responses to a wide range of Czech and non-Czech traditions. Leos Janček is increasingly recognized as one of the major operatic masters of the early twentieth century. In Janček beyond the Borders, Derek Katz presents an interpretive and critical study of Janček's major operas that questions prevailing views of the composer's relationship to the Czech language and to Slavic culture and demonstrates that the operas are deeply indebted to various existing operatic traditions outside of the Czech-speaking realm. Katz discusses the implications for Janček's operas of the composer's notorious speech-melody theories and of his fascination with Russia. He also points out revealing and persuasive parallels to certain major operas in non-Czech traditions: French, Italian, and German, that deserve notice and that demonstrate how the composer developed a practical operatic aesthetic through emulation and creative adaptation. In this fresh and novel approach, Katz goes beyond the normal evidentiary record—letters, sketches, and published writings—and allows Janček's works to speak for themselves. Derek Katz is Associate Professor of Music History at the University of California, Santa Barbara. He has written about Czech music for American and European academic journals and for the New York Times.
