

Catalysts and Catalysis

A catalyst is a substance which increases the rate of a chemical reaction without being consumed. Catalysis is increasing the rate of a reaction using a catalyst.

A catalyst lowers the activation energy of a reaction, but the net energy change from the reaction remains unchanged.

The Catalysts:

Plasma Chemistry and Catalysis in Gases and Liquids Vasile I. Parvulescu, Monica Magureanu, Petr Lukes, 2013-03-19 Filling the gap for a book that covers not only plasma in gases but also in liquids this is all set to become the standard reference for this topic It provides a broad based overview of plasma chemical and plasmacatalytic processes generated by electrical discharges in gases liquids and gas liquid environments in both fundamental and applied aspects by focusing on their environmental and green applications and also taking into account their practical and economic viability With the topics addressed by an international group of major experts this is a must have for scientists engineers students and postdoctoral researchers specializing in this field

New and Future Developments in Catalysis Steven L Suib, 2013-07-11 New and Future Developments in Catalysis is a package of seven books that compile the latest ideas concerning alternate and renewable energy sources and the role that catalysis plays in converting new renewable feedstock into biofuels and biochemicals Both homogeneous and heterogeneous catalysts and catalytic processes will be discussed in a unified and comprehensive approach There will be extensive cross referencing within all volumes Batteries and fuel cells are considered to be environmentally friendly devices for storage and production of electricity and they are gaining considerable attention The preparation of the feed for fuel cells fuel as well as the catalysts and the various conversion processes taking place in these devices are covered in this volume together with the catalytic processes for hydrogen generation and storage An economic analysis of the various processes is also part of this volume and enables an informed choice of the most suitable process Offers in depth coverage of all catalytic topics of current interest and outlines future challenges and research areas A clear and visual description of all parameters and conditions enabling the reader to draw conclusions for a particular case Outlines the catalytic processes applicable to energy generation and design of green processes

Catalysis James J Spivey, Yi-Fan Han, 2018-05-03 Catalysts are required for a variety of applications Industrialists and academics are increasingly challenged to find cost effective and environmentally benign catalysts to use This volume looks at modern approaches to catalysis and critically reviews the extensive literature on areas such as catalysts derived from waste materials determining the pore structure of activated carbon by nitrogen gas adsorption and a new tool to explore catalytic reaction mechanisms the catalytic shock tube With an emphasis on interdisciplinary content this book is aimed at catalytic science and engineering research communities

Catalysis rising stars in china Yulian He, Haifeng Xiong, Liuqingqing Yang, 2023-03-16 Carbon Nanomaterials in Hydrogenation Catalysis Edward Furimsky, 2019-03-22 Hydrogenation is a key reaction in both the food and petrochemical industries where it is used to reduce carbon carbon double bonds Without a catalyst hydrogenation reactions require extreme temperatures to occur meaning catalysts are essential for the reaction to be industrially useful During the past decade the properties of many carbon nanomaterials that are relevant to hydrogenation catalysis have been described including carbon nanotubes CNTs carbon nanofibers CNFs carbon nanohorns CNHs graphene oxide GO reduced graphene oxides rGO and fullerenes that are relevant to hydrogenation catalysis have been described For many of these the production methods have advanced to the commercial stage Numerous studies on the development of catalysts on carbon nano supports have appeared in the scientific literature and these catalysts have shown remarkable activity and specificity Carbon Nanomaterials in Hydrogenation Catalysis is a valuable reference for researchers and chemical engineers working on improving hydrogenation processes and those interested in applications for carbon nanomaterials Covering their production modification and applications as a catalyst support this book provides an in depth review of the current state of the art in using carbon nanomaterials for hydrogenation reactions Focus on Catalysis Research Lawrence P.
