Technology And Toil In Nineteenthcentury Britain:

Society and Economy in Modern Britain 1700-1850 Richard Brown,2002-11-01 For both contemporaries and later historians the Industrial Revolution is viewed as a turning point in modern British history There is no doubt that change occurred but what was the nature of that change and how did affect rural and urban society Beginning with an examination of the nature of history and Britain in 1700 this volume focuses on the economic and social aspects of the Industrial Revolution Unlike many previous textbooks on the same period it emphasizes British history and deals with developments in Wales Scotland and Ireland in their own right It is the emphasis on the diversity not the uniformity of experience on continuities as well as change in this crucial period of development which makes this volume distinctive In his companion title Richard Brown completes his examination of the period and looks at the changes that took place in Britain s political system and in its religious affiliations

British Industrial Capitalism Since The Industrial Revolution Roger Lloyd-Jones,Merv Lewis,2014-05-22 The authors use a long wave framework to examine the historical evolution of British industrial capitalism since the late 18th century and present a challenging and distinctive economic history of modern and contemporary Britain The book is intended for undergraduate courses on the economic history of modern Britain within history economic and social history economic history and economic degree schemes and economic theory courses

Technology and Toil in Nineteenth Century Britain Maxine Berg,1979 The Skilled Compositor, 1850-1914 Patrick Duffy,2017-03-02 For the first time since its invention over 500 years ago the print medium is being challenged as the primary means of recording and communicating ideas Indeed within the printing industry itself the advent of digital technology has rendered the craft of hand setting metal type obsolete the days of the skilled compositor are now at an end Patrick Duffy s work sets out to examine the experiences of the skilled compositor in the period 1850 to 1914 Focusing primarily on the workplace and the workplace institutions it aims to explore issues of control co operation and conflict in order to determine if the compositor did as many labour historians claim belong to an aristocracy of labour Drawing on a wide range of source material from trade society minutes to Parliamentary Papers the author explores the diversity of experience that compositors had in the workplace and the uneven patterns of change that the trade experienced The study throws light on some of the issues raised by these changes what part did ancient craft traditions play in the maintenance of control in the workplace Why were women excluded from this particular work when they were accepted in most other parts of the trade To what extent did trade society officials represent the aspirations of the rank and file membership Starting with an overview of the nature growth and development of the trade the book goes on to examine the occupational and social aspects of the compositors experience with a chapter devoted to women s role in the printing trade Finally the formation functions and development of relevant trades unions and employers associations is discussed This insightful analysis of the experience of the skilled compositor provides a valuable case study for labour historians at the same time furthering our understanding of a somewhat neglected aspect of printing history

Global Management Stewart R Clegg, Eduardo Ibarra-Colado, Bueno-Rodriguez Luis, 1999-02-22 This book re examines management theory after Globalization Combining key names and studies from across the world it explores the local realities that resist universal theories and that permeate the daily lives of practising managers The book provides a comprehensive and critical reflection on the widely documented phenomenon of globalization in business It assesses the implications of the diversity of individual economies and enterprises for general theories of management and concludes by presenting new approaches to the study and research of management and organizations

Manufacture in Town and Country Before the Factory Maxine Berg, Pat Hudson, Michael Sonenscher, 2002-05-09 The essays in this book explore the internal organisation of production before the development of the factory system

The Age of Machinery Gillian Cookson, 2018 An engagingly written account of textile engineering in its key northern centres rich with historical narrative and analysis The engineers who built the first generations of modern textile machines between 1770 and 1850 pushed at the boundaries of possibility This book investigates these pioneering machine makers almost all working within textile communities in northern England and the industry they created It probes their origins and skills the sources of their inspiration and impetus and how it was possible to develop a high tech factory centred world leading market in textile machinery virtually from scratch The story of textile engineering defies classical assumptions about the driving forces behind the Industrial Revolution The circumstances of its birth and the personal affiliations at work during periods of exceptional creativity suggest that the potential to accelerate economic growth could be found within social assets and craft skills Appreciating textile engineering within its own time and context challenges views inherited from Victorian thinkers who tended to ascribe to it features of the fully fledged industry they saw before them The Age of Machinery is an engagingly written account of the trade in its key northern centres devoid of jargon and yet tightly argued equally rich with historical narrative and analysis It will be invaluable not only to students and scholars of British economic history and the Industrial Revolution but also to social scientists looking at human agency and its contribution to economic growth and innovation GILLIAN COOKSON holds a DPhil in economic history and has been employed since 1995 in academic research and consultancy including as county editor Victoria County History of Durham

The Economic Development of the United Kingdom Since 1870 C. H. Feinstein, 1997 The theme of economic decline has dominated research into the modern economic history of the United Kingdom. Scholars have charted its fall from pre-eminence since the late nineteenth century and the loss of its position as the world's leading industrial nation. This authoritative two-volume set provides a representative selection of the seminal contributions which have stimulated debate and research on this topic and demonstrates the variety of views and the richness and quality of research by British and American scholars on the development of the modern British economy. The first volume provides a broad overview of Britain's growth and examines the general problems of growth and decline from late Victorian and Edwardian times to the present. The final section and the opening sections of Volume II are devoted to the principal factors which have been advanced as explanations for Britain's apparent inability to sustain its competitive position. Volume I concludes with a selection of articles on the quality of performance of British entrepreneurs and managers and their response to technical change. Volume II covers major themes including the attitudes of labour and trades unions, the contribution of education, science and technology to economic growth, the influence of capital markets and imperialism, and the effects of international trade and demand on the British economy. In conclusion, some specific studies of key industries have been chosen to illustrate many of these general themes.

British Books in Print, 1985 Small Press Record of Books in Print, 1990 The Dynamics of IT Implementation James Fleck, 1989 IIC, 1995 Power and Economic Institutions Bo Gustafsson, 1991. This important book written by leading economists and economic historians analyses how institutions are shaped by economic forces, how institutions shape economic behaviour, and how economics and politics interact in economic development. Part I deals with traditional economics and challenges received views of the efficiency of agriculture. Part II focuses on transitions to capitalism and recent theories of the origins of capitalist hierarchy at the firm level. The final part deals with the role of control organizations and politics in capitalist development.
