Television And The Red Menace:

Television and the Red Menace J. Fred MacDonald, 1985    Television in Black-and-white America Alan Nadel, 2005

La couverture indique Alan Nadel s new book reminds us that most of the images on early TV were decidedly Caucasian and directed at predominantly white audiences Television did not invent whiteness for America but it did reinforce it as the norm particularly during the Cold War years Nadel now shows just how instrumental it was in constructing a narrow conservative and very white vision of America During this era prime time TV was dominated by adult Westerns with heroes like The Rebels Johnny Yuma reincarnating Southern values and Bonanza s Cartwright family reinforcing the notion of white patriarchy programs that Nadel shows bristled with Cold War messages even as they spoke to the nation s mythology America had become visually reconfigured as a vast Ponderosa crisscrossed by concrete highways designed to carry suburban white drivers beyond the moral challenge of racism racial poverty and increasingly vocal civil rights demands    One Nation Under Television J. Fred MacDonald, 1994 Since commercial television emerged in the late 1940s it has been on the cutting edge of social political economic and cultural developments in the United States and the world This book is a provocative history of how the major networks schemed to gain ratings and power and to keep the FCC at bay The result was the creation of limited and rigidly standardized television offerings Professor MacDonald examines how the introduction of cable TV in the 1980s has weakened the power of the networks and reshaped the industry    Total Cold War Kenneth Alan Osgood, 2006 Osgood focuses on major campaigns such as Atoms for Peace People to People and cultural exchange programs Drawing on recently declassified documents that record U S psychological operations in some three dozen countries he tells how U S propaganda agencies presented everyday life in America to the world its citizens living full happy lives in a classless society where economic bounty was shared by all Osgood further investigates the ways in which superpower disarmament negotiations were used as propaganda maneuvers in the battle for international public opinion He also reexamines the early years of the space race focusing especially on the challenge to American propagandists posed by the Soviet launch of Sputnik

Super Media Michael R. Real, 1989-05-01 Written in a clear and engaging style Super Media introduces and examines the newly emerging cultural studies approach to understanding media Michael Real begins by providing a critical review of previous traditions of media research and theory illustrated with tables and comparative charts and re integrates media study around cultural studies He argues that issues of personal identity and consciousness of conflict and bias of politics and policy are more effectively articulated and understood through cultural studies Drawing from both humanities and the social sciences he centers his analyses in text meaning representation interpretation conflict ideology hegemony and culture Extensive case study    Voices from Captivity Robert C. Doyle, 1994 Doyle shows that though setting and circumstances may change POW stories share a common structure and are driven by similar themes Capture incarceration isolation propaganda torture capitulation or resistance death spiritual quest escape liberation and repatriation are recurrent key
