The Earliest English Brasses:

The Earliest English Brasses John Coales, 1987 Death, Art, and Memory in Medieval England Nigel

Saul, 2001-04-12 In this innovative and compelling book Nigel Saul approaches the world of the medieval gentry through the monuments they left behind them The Cobham family left the largest and most spectacular collection of brasses in Britain in their church at Cobham and other magnificent brasses in Lingfield and elsewhere Medieval brasses have hitherto been studied chiefly from an antiquarian or technical perspective Nigel Saul for the first time shows how they served as a link between the living and the dead Commemoration was inseparable from the wider dynamics of society Through the brasses and through family history he takes us to the heart of gentry aspirations and fears successes and disappointments This extensively illustrated study offers a new paradigm for the study of medieval church monuments and makes a major contribution to our understanding of gentry culture

Early Incised Slabs and Brasses from the London Marblers Sally Badham, Malcolm Norris, 1999 Although the objective of the Monumental Brass Society is to promote the study both of monumental brasses and of incised slabs research on the two media has proceeded along separate and largely independent lines This is the first work to combine the stylistic analysis of monumental brasses with incised slabs Like brasses incised slabs are susceptible to stylistic analysis to identify workshop groupings This book identifies existing and recorded Purbeck marble incised slabs from the pre Black Death London workshops and compares their designs with those of contemporary brasses The result is a fuller picture than has previously been available of the operations of the London marblers before the Black Death It suggests that in the late thirteenth century production was on a larger scale than previously believed and evidence is outlined for the existence of multiple workshops producing brasses and incised slabs in London for much of the period covered by this study
