Early Modern Women and Transnational Communities of Letters Julie D. Campbell,Anne R. Larsen,2016-12-05 An important contribution to growing scholarship on women s participation in literary cultures this essay collection concentrates on cross national communities of letters to offer a comparative and international approach to early modern women s writing The essays gathered here focus on multiple literatures from several countries ranging from Italy and France to the Low Countries and England Individual essays investigate women in diverse social classes and life stages ranging from siblings and mothers to nuns to celebrated writers the collection overall is invested in crossing geographic linguistic political and religious borders and exploring familial political and religious communities Taken together these essays offer fresh ways of reading early modern women s writing that consider such issues as the changing cultural geographies of the early modern world women s bilingualism and multilingualism and women s sense of identity mediated by local regional national and transnational affiliations and conflicts

The Religious Paintings of Hendrick ter Brugghen Natasha T. Seaman,2017-07-05 The first in depth study of the Utrecht artist to address questions beyond connoisseurship and attribution this book makes a significant contribution to Ter Brugghen and Northern Caravaggist studies Focusing on the Dutch master s simultaneous use of Northern archaisms with Caravaggio s motifs and style Natasha Seaman nuances our understanding of Ter Brugghen s appropriations from the Italian painter Her analysis centers on four paintings all depicting New Testament subjects They include Ter Brugghen s largest and first known signed work Crowning with Thorns his most archaizing the Crucifixion and the two paintings most directly related to the works of Caravaggio the Doubting Thomas and the Calling of Matthew By examining the ways in which Ter Brugghen s paintings deliberately diverge from Caravaggio s Seaman sheds new light on the Utrecht artist and his work For example she demonstrates that where Caravaggio s paintings are boldly illusionistic and mimetic thus de emphasizing their materiality Ter Brugghen s works examined here create the opposite effect connecting their content to their made form This study not only illuminates the complex meanings of the paintings addressed here but also offers insights into the image debates and the status of devotional art in Italy and Utrecht in the seventeenth century by examining one artist s response to them

The Twelve Years Truce (1609) ,2014-07-03

The Twelve Years Truce of 9 April 1609 made a temporary end to the hostilities between Spain and the Northern Netherlands that had lasted for over four decades. The Truce signified a crucial step in the recognition of the Republic of the Northern Netherlands as a sovereign power. As the direct source of inspiration for the 1648 Peace of Munster the Truce is a crucial text in the formation of the early modern law of nations. As few other texts it reflects the radical changes to the laws of war and peace from around 1600. The Twelve Years Truce offers a collection of essays by leading specialists on the diplomatic and legal history of the Antwerp Truce of 1609. The first part covers the negotiation process leading up to the Truce. The second part collects essays on the consequences of the Truce on the state of war. In the third part the consequences of the Truce for the sovereignty of the Northern and Southern Netherlands as well as its wider significance for the changing laws of war and peace of the age are scrutinised.

The Reconstruction of Family Policy Policy Studies

Organization, 1991-07-30. During the past decade the appropriate role of government in society has been subjected to a sweeping reevaluation throughout the world. An important element in this ongoing debate has been a reappraisal of the form and magnitude of public social welfare policy. The essays that make up this volume examine a variety of aspects of this topic as it applies to family policy in the United States including both the political debate over who should be served and how programs should be funded and the intellectual questions surrounding the nature of social organization and its role within the state. Divided into three major subject areas the work reexamines basic elements of current policy debate surrounding family life. The first section explores fundamental features of family policy considering whether there is a conflict of interest between adults and children in fashioning social policy and outlining the parameters of a feminist family policy. The second section examines the linkage between ideology and action. Among the topics covered are the link between state political culture and family policy, latchkey children, treatment of the nation's elderly and its link to a mythical past, abortion and family policy in the People's Republic of China. The final section analyzes a number of specific policies including AFDC program cutbacks, the decline in family planning resources, nonfamily based care and joint custody arrangements and attempts to trace their impact. A concluding chapter examines the future of family policy. This work will be a valuable resource for both students and professionals in the fields of public policy studies and sociology as well as an important addition to public and academic libraries.

Family, Justice, and Delinquency Brenda

Geiger, Michael Fischer, 1995-01-30. Nuclear family and kibbutz childrearing practices are compared from a Rawlsian perspective of justice. Based upon the kibbutz educational system which has reinstated the family, Geiger and Fischer propose a model of educational change for consideration in the United States. This model is designed to strengthen the nuclear family while improving the prospects of disadvantaged, anomie and unattached youth. Geiger and Fischer examine within a Rawlsian perspective several child rearing institutions affecting children. Justice as fairness would consider a child rearing institution and its inequalities as fair if there are no alternative arrangements under which the prospects of least advantaged children could be improved Among these least advantaged children are those who are neglected abused and stripped of self respect As the nuclear family disintegrates the authors ask whether it can fulfill its child rearing function Utilizing a self report study conducted on socialization and delinquency in Israel as well as several other observational studies the authors demonstrate that in a more egalitarian structure such as the kibbutz least advantaged children have more opportunities to develop into autonomous responsible individuals For Americans the kibbutz educational system shows new paths for change from nursery school through high school that would allow for greater bonds between the family school work and the community An emerging sense of community would also stimulate the moral and intellectual growth of disadvantaged youth This book is recommended to researchers and policy makers in the areas of education delinquency and social welfare A History of Marriage Systems Gladys Robina Quale, 1988-05-06 Readers seeking a historical and cross cultural treatment of marriage and the family will not be disappointed by this book A readable and comprehensive account of marriage rich in colorful social history Quale's work excels in the comparison of lines of development among the foremost cultures of the world Particularly impressive in this regard is her treatment of the Eastern civilizations and how these differed from what demographic historians have come to call the West European pattern of marriage Although written as a history this book should be of interest to students of the family in the social sciences While it is not a path breaking work in the sense of providing significant novel conceptual or theoretical insights it skillfully incorporates theoretical and empirical contributions from a multitude of disciplines It devotes considerable attention to contemporary trends and consistently relates the institution of the family to the overall socioeconomic political and demographic contingencies within society Quale has written an important book that contains a wealth of useful information and deserves serious consideration for use in graduate and undergraduate instruction Journal of Marriage and the Family This is the first general worldwide history of marriage systems Though it is comprehensive it also uses contemporary American trends to illustrate broader tendencies in significant and sometimes dramatic ways After going back to the earliest generations of human life to seek the roots of why and how human beings came to marry it explores the various points in family life at which marriages are made dissolved and remade It treats marriage systems as a basis for understanding how not only families but whole societies operate The functioning of a marriage system is perceived to be fully related to the overall economic and political situation within which families and individuals must make their way The overall situation is looked at in a historical context reflecting a condition of constant change Quale traces the gradual modifications in patterns through the rise of agriculture and herding into commercial urban societies and on to contemporary industrial commercial life comparing lines of development in the major regions of the world Negotiated Language Change in Early Modern Holland Emily L. Buechler,1987-10-20 Although studies have been made of individual aspects of the problem this volume is the first to provide a comprehensive overview of both the theoretical issues and the scope and variety of present day migratory movements in Europe together with their historical antecedents In his introduction Hans Buechler reviews significant previous research and outlines the theoretical framework of the present volume The primary focus of the chapters that follow is the experience of migrants and of household members who remain at home analyzed within the total context of migration in both host and sender countries The effects of migration on family economy and kin relationships are examined in detail Among the issues explored are economic decision making processes in migrant households the implications of migration for family landholding ties between migrants and family left behind and kin friendship and neighborhood networks Other topics considered are the working and social environment experienced by migrants labor policies and restrictions relating to employment work permits and workers families and the problems connected with returning home The final section a bibliographic essay by Judith Maria Buechler helps to put the various individual contributions in a wider perspective
