Synonymy And Semantic Classification:

Synonymy and Semantic Classification Karen Sparck Jones, 1964 Synonymy and Semantic Classification Karen Sparck Jones, 1986 Charting a New Course: Natural Language Processing and Information Retrieval. John I.

Tait, 2005-04-01 Karen Sparck Jones is one of the major figures of 20th century and early 21st Century computing and information processing. Her ideas have had an important influence on the development of Internet Search Engines. Her contribution has been recognized by awards from the natural language processing, information retrieval, and artificial intelligence communities, including being asked to present the prestigious Grace Hopper lecture. She continues to be an active and influential researcher. Her contribution to the scientific evaluation of the effectiveness of such computer systems has been quite outstanding. This book celebrates the life and work of Karen Sparck Jones in her seventieth year. It consists of fifteen new and original chapters written by leading international authorities, reviewing the state of the art and her influence in the areas in which Karen Sparck Jones has been active. Although she has a publication record which goes back over forty years, it is clear even the very early work reviewed in the book can be read with profit by those working on recent developments in information processing like bioinformatics and the semantic web. Semantic Computing Phillip C.-Y.

Sheu, Heather Yu, C. V. Ramamoorthy, Arvind K. Joshi, Lotfi A. Zadeh, 2011-07-05. Presents the state of the technology and points to future directions for semantic computing. Semantic computing, a rapidly evolving interdisciplinary field, seeks to structure design and manipulate computer content to better satisfy the needs and intentions of users and create a more meaningful user experience. This remarkable contribution examines the art, engineering, technology, and applications of the field. Moreover, it brings together researchers from such disciplines as natural language processing, software engineering, multimedia, semantics, semantic Web, signal processing, and pattern recognition in order to provide a single source that presents the state of the technology and points to new breakthroughs on the horizon. Semantic Computing begins with an introduction that explores the concepts, technology, applications, and future of semantic computing. Next, the book is divided into four parts: Part One, Semantic Analysis; Part Two, Semantic Languages and Integration; Part Three, Semantic Applications; Part Four, Semantic Programming and Interface. As readers progress through the book, they will learn not only the underlying science but also the fundamental technological building blocks of semantic computing. Moreover, they will discover a variety of cross-disciplinary solutions to current computing and communication problems. Throughout the book, references to the primary literature enable further investigation of each individual topic. Semantic Computing is ideal for industrial managers, researchers, and engineers seeking to design the next generation of computing systems in order to better meet user needs. It is also recommended as a textbook for senior undergraduate and graduate-level semantic computing courses. The Generative Lexicon James Pustejovsky, 1998-01-23. The first formally elaborated theory of a generative approach to word meaning. The Generative Lexicon lays the foundation for an implemented computational treatment of word meaning that connects explicitly to a compositional semantics The Generative Lexicon presents a novel and exciting theory of lexical semantics that addresses the problem of the multiplicity of word meaning that is how we are able to give an infinite number of senses to words with finite means The first formally elaborated theory of a generative approach to word meaning it lays the foundation for an implemented computational treatment of word meaning that connects explicitly to a compositional semantics In contrast to the static view of word meaning where each word is characterized by a predetermined number of word senses that imposes a tremendous bottleneck on the performance capability of any natural language processing system Pustejovsky proposes that the lexicon becomes an active and central component in the linguistic description The essence of his theory is that the lexicon functions generatively first by providing a rich and expressive vocabulary for characterizing lexical information then by developing a framework for manipulating fine grained distinctions in word descriptions and finally by formalizing a set of mechanisms for specialized composition of aspects of such descriptions of words as they occur in context extended and novel senses are generated The subjects covered include semantics of nominals figure ground nominals relational nominals and other event nominals the semantics of causation in particular how causation is lexicalized in language including causative unaccusatives aspectual predicates experiencer predicates and modal causatives how semantic types constrain syntactic expression such as the behavior of type shifting and type coercion operations a formal treatment of event semantics with subevents and a general treatment of the problem of polysemy Language Speech and Communication series Reader in Classification and Descriptive Cataloging Ann F.
