Sorraya In A Coma:

Global/Local Rob Wilson, Wimal Dissanayake, 1996-05-27 This groundbreaking collection focuses on what may be for cultural studies the most intriguing aspect of contemporary globalization the ways in which the postnational restructuring of the world in an era of transnational capitalism has altered how we must think about cultural production Mapping a new world space that is simultaneously more globalized and localized than before these essays examine the dynamic between the movement of capital images and technologies without regard to national borders and the tendency toward fragmentation of the world into increasingly contentious enclaves of difference ethnicity and resistance Ranging across issues involving film literature and theory as well as history politics economics sociology and anthropology these deeply interdisciplinary essays explore the interwoven forces of globalism and localism in a variety of cultural settings with a particular emphasis on the Asia Pacific region Powerful readings of the new image culture transnational film genre and the politics of spectacle are offered as is a critique of globalization as the latest guise of colonization Articles that unravel the complex links between the global and local in terms of the unfolding narrative of capital are joined by work that illuminates phenomena as diverse as yellow cab interracial sex in Japan machinic desire in Robocop movies and the Pacific Rim city An interview with Fredric Jameson by Paik Nak Chung on globalization and Pacific Rim responses is also featured as is a critical afterword by Paul Bov Positioned at the crossroads of an altered global terrain this volume the first of its kind analyzes the evolving transnational imaginary the full scope of contemporary cultural production by which national identities of political allegiance and economic regulation are being undone and in which imagined communities are being reshaped at both the global and local levels of everyday existence In the Eye of the Storm Mahnaz Afkhami, Erika Friedl, 1994 Sorraya in a Coma Esmail Fassih, Ismā'īl Faṣīḥ, 1985 East-West Film Journal, 1994 The Modern Persian Short Story, 1921-1981 John Green, 1987 and the close coincidence of the development of public literacy with that of the short story is discussed Iranian Short Story Authors John Green, 1989 Other Secrets Farida Karodia, 2012-11-28 It was relatively common in the days before mass relocation to find solitary Asian traders living and conducting business in the heart of white rural communities Isolated because of their racial and cultural differences they built walls around themselves surviving like bits of flotsam in the hostile sea practising their religion and conducting their daily routine as inconspicuously as possible Sisters Yasmin and Meena their parents and grandmother are among those who live behind the walls helpless to control their destinies in the arid years of apartheid but not entirely without hope Yasmin's strivings bring her some of what she wants in life but not without tragedy compounded by long concealed secrets that seem to be passed from mother to daughter In this sensitively written novel Farida Karodia explores the complex relationships between mothers and daughters and the peripheral role of principled hard working father whose only fault is his futile optimism Language and Culture in Persian Paul Sprachman, 2002 This book is a full course in Persian Lite It offers sophisticated insights into the language without requiring months of laborious study The book will interest both general readers and language specialists especially autodidacts who want to learn about the languages and cultures of the modern Middle East and Central Asia but do not have time for formal language instruction The type of language and culture awareness the book promotes not only helps one understand the way millions of people communicate in Afghanistan Iran Pakistan and Tajikistan but it also fosters an awareness of basic features of Arabic Hindi Kashmiri Pashto and other languages that have either contributed to the development of modern Persian or have been influenced by it

Afrindian Fictions Pallavi Rastogi, 2008 In the first published book length study of Indian fiction in South Africa Pallavi Rastogi demonstrates that Indians desire South African citizenship in the fullest sense of the word a longing for inclusion that is asserted through an Afrindian identity Afrindian Fictions Diaspora Race and National Desire in South Africa examines Afrindian identity and blurs the racial binary of black and white interaction in South African studies as well as unsettles the East West paradigm of migration dominant in South Asian diaspora studies While offering incisive analyses of the work of the most important South African Indian writers today Ahmed Essop Farida Karodia Achmat Dangor Imraan Coovadia and Praba Moodley among others the author also places South African Indian fiction within broader literary traditions Rastogi's project of recovery shines a light on the rich but neglected literature by South African Indians The book closes with interviews conducted with six key South African Indian writers Here the authors not only reflect on their own writing but also comment on many of the issues raised in the book itself particularly the role of Indians in South Africa today and the status of South African Indian writing Afrindian Fictions is a valuable introduction to South African Indian literature as well as a major interrogation of some of the foundational notions of post colonial literary studies
