

Woke up today feeling very full of thoughts about success, happiness and making decisions and choices. Had somewhere (really must compile these somewhere) that if you could make decisions thinking in terms of decades rather than the moment, you make much better decisions.
And then I can't help wondering that to my goal of being fully committed to the moment and doing my best in the present.
So I'm confused (and a few close & understand more) about how these two notions
- make decisions based on the long term
- live each moment by being fully present in it.

Hmm. Ok, so there are a few words popping in like
... and some people with that thought a bit more.

What's the opposite of living in the moment? What has the content been in some of my past decisions & what did the long term outcome turn out to be? I also wonder - need to reflect more on my successes as I do on my failures. I do spend a lot of time trying to think about what to learn from the times I didn't succeed & that's been really helpful for me, but have about also doing more of the stuff that helped me grow as have more as the little with my kids.

Anyway, speaking of success, I was reflecting yesterday on what it really means to me and also how it's changed for me over the years and I was so surprised to realize, when I actually put it into words, that I finally ... what it

The New My Writing:

The New Academic Simon Clews, 2023-03-28 What does it mean to be an academic in today's rapidly changing world? As a modern academic you're expected to wear many hats. It's not enough to be outstanding in your chosen field. You also need to be able to connect with audiences, speak with wit and flair, write knock-out articles, attract media attention, and share it all with your huge social media following. But how do you do all of that? In The New Academic Simon Clews offers a wealth of practical advice on how to write and speak in an entertaining, informative, and above all else accessible way. Aimed at researchers at all levels of experience, this book will set you up with the basics of writing and speaking for wide audiences, then teach you how to develop a public profile and gain traction online. In a rapidly changing world, The New Academic shows scholars how to be front and center in the public conversation, allowing more people to benefit from their knowledge and research. Funny, lively, and insightful, this is your hands-on guide for sharing your research with the world. Writing

Centers and the New Racism Laura Greenfield, Karen Rowan, 2011-12-16 Noting a lack of sustained and productive dialogue about race in university writing center scholarship, the editors of this volume have created a rich resource for writing center tutors, administrators, and scholars. Motivated by a scholarly interest in race and whiteness studies and by an ethical commitment to anti-racism work, contributors address a series of related questions: How does institutionalized racism in American education shape the culture of literacy and language education in the writing center? How does racism operate in the discourses of writing center scholarship? Lore and how may writing centers be unwittingly complicit in racist practices? How can they meaningfully operationalize anti-racist work? How do they persevere through the difficulty and messiness of negotiating race and racism in their daily practice? The conscientious, nuanced attention to race in this volume is meant to model what it means to be bold in engagement with these hard questions and to spur the kind of sustained, productive, multi-vocal and challenging dialogue that, with a few significant exceptions, has been absent from the field. Using Writing to

Learn Across the Content Areas: An ASCD Action Tool Sue Beers, Lou Howell, 2005-11 A great way to help students learn your content is to have them write about it. Writing is a way for students to review their own learning, organize their thinking, and evaluate how well they understand what has been taught. Use the 81 tools in this binder to help students in every grade and subject become actively engaged in their own learning. The binder contains everything teachers need to begin using these strategies immediately. Each strategy includes complete how-to-use instructions, teacher materials for classroom use, classroom examples, and a template for student assignments. Create Your School Library Writing Center Timothy Horan, 2016-10-16 Colleges typically have writing centers to which students can bring their writing assignments to a peer tutor for assistance, but most high schools and middle schools do not. This book advocates for the creation of writing centers in 7-12 schools and explains why the school library is the best place for the writing center. There is a glaring absence of writing centers in today's K-12 schools. More and more students are being asked in college entrance testing to submit samples of their writing and employers are expecting their workers to write correctly and clearly This book addresses the critical lack of writing centers below the undergraduate level It demonstrates how middle school and high school librarians can create writing centers in their school libraries explains how to assist students through a one on one writing tutorial method and gives students and teachers the tools for learning and understanding the complex art of writing Author Timothy Horan inventor of the School Library Writing Center establishes why school libraries represent the best and most logical places to create writing centers and why school librarians are the natural choice to direct writing center operations He then takes readers through the process of creating a writing center from original conception up through opening day Additional topics covered include how to publicize and grow your School Library Writing Center maintaining your writing center for efficient operation on a daily basis as well as for years to come how to become an effective writing center director and writing tutor the most current technology that can be used to assist in the writing composition and research process and working with English language learner ELL students within your writing center Harper's New Monthly Magazine ,1875
