sources in Java. The captions are by Maria Wronska Friend an ethnologist and batik expert who frequently visits Indonesian batik centers and has worked for many years as an anthropologist in Papua New Guinea. Her contributions provide fundamental knowledge for lovers of this art form while at the same time providing new insights for experts. Rudolf Smend has invited other batik aficionados of his generation to share their passion for batik in this book. Inger McCabe Elliott author of the bestselling Batik: Fabled Cloth of Java has contributed her lifelong experience. Other authorities like Annegret Haake, Brigitte Khan Majlis and Jonathan Hope share their views and expertise in these pages. This book represents a labor of love and a lifetime of friendship for the two authors who hope it will provide inspiration to a whole new generation of batik lovers.

Globalization in Southeast Asia Shinji Yamashita, Jeremy Seymour Eades, 2003. The rapid postwar economic growth in the Southeast Asia region has led to a transformation of many of the societies there together with the development of new types of anthropological research in the region. Local societies with originally quite different cultures have been incorporated into multi ethnic states with their own projects of nation building based on the creation of national cultures using these indigenous elements. At the same time the expansion of international capitalism has led to increasing flows of money, people, languages and cultures across national boundaries resulting in new hybrid social structures and cultural forms. This book examines the nature of these processes in contemporary Southeast Asia with detailed case studies drawn from countries across the region including Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore and Thailand. At the macro level these include studies of nation building and the incorporation of minorities. At the micro level they range from studies of popular cultural forms such as music and textiles to the impact of new sects and the world religions on local religious practice. Moving between the global and the local are the various streams of migrants within the region including labor migrants responding to the changing distribution of economic opportunities and ethnic minorities moving in response to natural disaster.

Batik: From the Courts of Java and Sumatra Rudolf G. Smend, Brigitte Khan Majlis, Harmen C. Veldhuisen, 2013-02-12. With beautiful full color Batik cloths and extensive historical and cultural commentary, Batik: From the Courts of Java and Sumatra is a fundamental work in the field of Indonesian art and culture. Batik occupies a special position in Indonesia. The extraordinary photographs of cloths and prints in this book demonstrate why batik is the stuff of textile legend. These 71 batik designs taken from the collection of famed dealer Rudolf G. Smend date from 1880-1930, a time still considered batik's golden age. Emanating from the provincial and stately courts of Yogyakarta and Surakarta in Central Java are hip, chest, shoulder and head cloths in controlled, orderly geometric patterns in natural soga brown, indigo blue, black and cream. Brighter colors and freer designs on the sarongs made in Cirebon, Pekalongan, Lasem and other towns along Java's commercial north coast eloquently attest to the blending of indigenous forms, motifs and colors with outside influences. Southern Sumatra with its Muslim heritage contributed large shoulder cloths and headscarves often bearing Koranic invocations. Complementing these extraordinary cloths are 16 vintage photo prints from the Leo Haks collection which demonstrate how batik was worn at court and in other settings Batik Itie C. Hout,2001 From about 1840 onwards batiks found their way from what was called the Netherlands East Indies then under Dutch colonial rule to the Netherlands where they were kept in private and public collections Owing to Holland s great interest in Batik Amsterdam s Tropenmuseum now owns a collection of over 3000 pieces Many represent the major batik centres that emerged on Java Madura and Sumatra Batiks tell the stories of their maker their wearers and eventual collectors By studying the history of individual pieces from their creation to their arrival in the Tropenmuseum we can relate them to their shared history Batik became a product of intercultural contact in a society where different ethnic groups lived next to or with each other This book focuses on this communication on batiks as visual witnesses of cultural encounter within the East but also between the East and the West This book will appeal to anyone interested in Indonesian arts and textiles It is a rich source of study for scholars interested in the art of batik and the society in which it developed to its high level of perfection Batik Belanda, 1840-1940 Harmen Veldhuisen,1993 Batik.

Traces through time Fiona Kerlogue,Dagmar Pospišilová,2021-01-01 The batik of Java has a special place in museum textile collections and aspects of the art of batik have been discussed at length in countless publications This study based on the batik collections of the N prstek Museum raises a number of questions which have been so far underexplored How strong is the evidence for the early manufacture of batik in Java How and when did batik making become widely practised there Was it made by village women for their own use How and why did batik develop into an industry employing thousands of people filling warehouses with stock to be distributed throughout the Indonesian archipelago What was the effect of the introduction of wax printing and of aniline dyes It is often asserted that batik carries deep meaning To what extent is this really the case When did batik depicting wayang or shadow puppet figures start to be made and who for What was the role of calligraphy batiks And what was it that drew European collectors to batik in the early 20th century What local circumstances governed their choices In a series of essays this volume explores these questions drawing on contemporary sources and providing a wealth of new insights
