The "Mystery of History", its Functionalisation and Disintegration in Graham Swift's "Waterland" Thorben Höppner,2023-05-02 Seminar paper from the year 2021 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 10 language English abstract This paper investigates how the ambivalent perhaps even ambiguous definition of historia relates to the representation of history in the novel and how this representation again relates to its functionalisation by Tom Crick To answer this question this paper will primarily work with Linda Hutcheon's notion of historiographic metafiction while also pointing out similarities to the reading of Waterland as a trauma narrative In taking a closer look at the protagonist narrator himself this paper argues that the protection from chaos and disorder which Landow addresses is only achieved through a form of historical escapism Superficially speaking Graham Swift's Waterland is a novel about a history teacher who having lost his job forsakes the formal teaching of history and embarks on an extracurricular journey into his own past However upon closer examination Waterland is more than that a novel about history itself It explores the whole mystery of history as Swift himself puts it in the introduction to the novel Waterland xv Thus it is only logical that the novel prefaces its narrative with an insightful epigraph a dictionary definition of the Latin word historia from which the English word history originates As can be seen above however said definition is ambivalent it is inherently polysemantic as Judith Ryan notes James Acheson has likewise pointed out that the fact that historia can mean either history or fiction is significant for the historian and the writer of fiction must deal with similar problems in writing about the past The natural tendency of language towards proliferation of its meaning aside the epigraph leaves us with a very ambivalent concept of history which the narrative of Waterland in its dealing with history then builds on Since such a prominent theme in Waterland the novel's representation of history has been thoroughly examined in secondary literature particularly against the theoretical background of what Linda Hutcheon has identified as historiographic metafiction Re-introduction News ,2000 Eight Books of Homer's Odyssey with Introduction, Commentary, and Vocabulary Homer,1897 The Academy ,1892 The Principles of Argumentation George Pierce Baker,1895 Technological Developments in Networking, Education and Automation

A Companion to Literary Biography Richard Bradford, 2018-09-18

An authoritative review of literary biography covering the seventeenth century to the twentieth century A Companion to Literary Biography offers a comprehensive account of literary biography spanning the history of the genre across three centuries. The editor an esteemed literary biographer and noted expert in the field has encouraged contributors to explore the theoretical and methodological questions raised by the writing of biographies of writers. The text examines how biographers have dealt with the lives of classic authors from Chaucer to contemporary figures such as Kingsley Amis. The Companion brings a new perspective on how literary biography enables the reader to deal with the relationship between the writer and their work. Literary biography is the most popular form of writing about writing yet it has been largely neglected in the academic community. This volume bridges the gap between literary biography as a popular genre and its relevance for the academic study of literature. This important work Allows the author of a biography to be treated as part of the process of interpretation and investigates biographical reading as an important aspect of criticism. Examines the birth of literary biography at the close of the seventeenth century and considers its expansion through the eighteenth nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Addresses the status and writing of literary biography from numerous perspectives and with regard to various sources methodologies and theories. Reviews the ways in which literary biography has played a role in our perception of writers in the mainstream of the English canon from Chaucer to the present day. Written for students at the undergraduate level through postgraduate and doctoral levels as well as academics A Companion to Literary Biography illustrates and accounts for the importance of the literary biography as a vital element of criticism and as an index to our perception of literary history

Management

Information System Singh & Bhattacharya, 1995 The main focus of the present collection of papers comments articles and extracts is on the prime requisites of effective management information system for the modern growth oriented and result oriented corporate organisation. Such a system will enhance the scope and quality of the organisation's information collection and use. A large component of management literature is devoted to the analysis of system that are more technical oriented than human oriented in terms of cost saving and as merely support services. It needs to be recognised that the true management information system is one which focuses on effective support for managerial design making. The material contained in this volume represents concepts ideas experiences and applications which together cover the dynamics of the modern management information system both as it is and as it should or needs to be. In their totality the papers extend beyond mere communications to deployment and application of collected information for optimal use in the interests of the corporate organisation. As such the papers will be useful for not only students and scholars of the various aspects of information management but also for practising managers consultants and middle and senior level executives of the modern corporate enterprises Readers' Guide Library Association.
