The first organized groups appeared in the XVII century. They were composed of less than 20 members and directed by a violin or a key. In later orchestras the number of musicians increased and was guided by a director. Traditionally they are composed of three sections of instruments.

STAGE DISTRIBUTION

WOODWINDS

The sound is produced by the air flowing through the mouthpiece, the tube and the horn-shaped bell. They classified according to the material of which they are made or they were made in earlier times.

WOODWINDS

The sound pitch can be changed by opening and closing the holes in the tube of the instrument.

BRASS

By changing the tension of the lips, the position of the slide or the pressure of the key, the musician produces notes of various pitches.

OPTIONAL INSTRUMENTS

PERCUSSION

They produce sound when they are hit, scraped or collided against each other. Some of them can be turned to produce a much defined sound.

Instruments of the Orchestra by Sight and Sound UNKNOWN. AUTHOR, 2015-06-25 Excerpt from Instruments of the Orchestra by Sight and Sound A Description of the Instruments and Their Use Illustrated by Special Charts in Color and by Victor Records on Which They May Be Heard. The need of a treble viol to support the high voices brought about the perfection of the violin about 1650. In this early development a very important part was taken by the composer Monteverde who made the violin a regular member and the strings the main body of his orchestra. As instruments improved the tendency grew to write for the orchestra without voices. This led to the Suites or collections of dances for orchestra a typical example of which is Bach's D Major Suite. Records 35669 35656 The suite developed into the symphony of Haydn who more than a century and a half ago perfected the symphony orchestra with its four groups of instruments. Haydn's orchestra consisted of a string choir of first and second violins violas cellos and double bass these formed the backbone of the orchestra. The woodwind included not more than two flutes to oboes and two bassoons. Two natural horns and two natural trumpets furnished the brass. The percussion consisted of a pair of kettledrums with the occasional use of the triangle and cymbals. Haydn's method of writing for these instruments may be heard in the Surprise Symphony.
