and diplomacy through colonialism Africa could not claim a position of neutrality meaning that it mobilised human and natural resources to support the imperial war effort Fighting both within and outside Africa colonised Africans who were compelled or coaxed by the colonial regimes of the warring European countries fought Europeans and Africans too The soldiers fought with great dedication and contributed significantly to successes attained by the belligerent European colonialists Similarly African non combatants like carriers brought zeal and enthusiasm to difficult wartime tasks The impact of the war on Africa was immense with far reaching consequences in specific colonies and touched the lives of all Africans under colonial rule Although the continent s connections to the war were immense and diverse these experiences are not widely known among scholars and the general public This is because over the years most studies and commemorative events of the war have centred on the European theatre of the war and its outcomes This book brings together interesting essays written by scholars of African history society and military about African experiences of the war It complements and problematises some key themes on Africa and the First World War and offers a stimulating historiographical excursion providing possibilities for reconsidering normative conclusions on the war The volume will be of interest to general readers as well as students and researchers in different areas of scholarship including African history war studies postcolonial studies cultural studies labour history and the history of memory among others

A History of Ghana W.E.F. Ward,2023-05-03 A History of Ghana 1958 uses both European archives and considerable research among African traditional histories to examine the history of the Gold Coast and Ghana The African histories are particularly important as many village traditions and more so those of larger towns have traditions that date back hundreds of years and whose accuracy can be tallied with those of their neighbours Accounts from Western sources do not shy away from detailing British mistakes in government and the resulting book is an even handed history with much under read research direct from African sources

The Gold Coast Regiment in the African Campaigns During the First World War 1914-18 Hugh Clifford,2017-12-19 A famous African regiment during the Great War The First World War was of course principally fought in Europe The established European nations had by the turn of the 20th century expanded their influence across the globe thus gaining advantages in commerce and colonisation Germany comparatively new to nationhood was a late comer to global imperialism but nevertheless maintained colonies in the wider world particularly in west and east Africa When war broke out the forces in the colonies of both sides which had hitherto lived as neighbours now became enemies Both Germany and Britain recruited troops from local populations and the subject of this book the Gold Coast Regiment were among them The Gold Coast now Ghana in West Africa together with Nigeria provided excellent strong resourceful soldiers for the British Empire It was logical that these troops would be most effective in African campaigns and the Gold Coast Regiment was accordingly dispatched to fight in the Cameroons and in the campaigns in East Africa There they did fine service in actions which are described in detail in these pages The side show theatres of the Great War have always been of special interest to students of this period and so this book is essential reading on the subject Contains maps and illustrations not present in original versions of this text Leonaur editions are newly typeset and are not facsimiles each title is available in softcover and hardback with dustjacket our hardbacks are cloth bound and feature gold foil lettering on their spines and fabric head and tail bands
