in the regulation of international trade It is primarily concerned with identifying the lessons the international community can learn specifically in the context of the WTO from decades of European Community and Union experience in facing this question The book demonstrates first that it is possible to reconcile the pursuit of economic and non economic interests that the EU has found a mechanism by which to do so and that the application of the principle of proportionality is fundamental to the realisation of this It is argued that the EU approach can be characterised as a practical application of the principle of sustainable development Secondly from the analysis of the EU experience this book identifies fundamental conditions crucial to achieving this reconciliation Thirdly the book explores the implications of lessons from the EU experience for the international community In so doing it assesses both the potential and limits of the existing international regulatory framework for such reconciliation The book develops a deeper understanding of the inter relationship between the legal regulation of economic and non economic development adding clarity to the debate in a controversial area It argues that a more holistic approach to the consideration of development encompassing economic and non economic concerns sustainable development is not only desirable in principle but realisable in practice
