The Geographic Mosaic Of Coevolution Interspecific Interactions:

The Geographic Mosaic of Coevolution John N. Thompson,2005-06-15 Coevolution reciprocal evolutionary change in interacting species driven by natural selection is one of the most important ecological and genetic processes organizing the earth's biodiversity most plants and animals require coevolved interactions with other species to survive and reproduce The Geographic Mosaic of Coevolution analyzes how the biology of species provides the raw material for long term coevolution evaluates how local coadaptation forms the basic module of coevolutionary change and explores how the coevolutionary process reshapes locally coevolving interactions across the earth's constantly changing landscapes Picking up where his influential The Coevolutionary Process left off John N Thompson synthesizes the state of a rapidly developing science that integrates approaches from evolutionary ecology population genetics phylogeography systematics evolutionary biochemistry and physiology and molecular biology Using models data and hypotheses to develop a complete conceptual framework Thompson also draws on examples from a wide range of taxa and environments illustrating the expanding breadth and depth of research in coevolutionary biology

Interaction and Coevolution John N. Thompson,2014-02-14 It is not only the species that change evolutionarily through interactions the interactions themselves also change Thus states John N Thompson in the foreword to Interaction and Coevolution the first title in his series of books exploring the relentless nature of evolution and the processes that shape the web of life Originally published in 1982 more as an idea piece an early attempt to synthesize then academically distinct but logically linked strands of ecological thought and to suggest avenues for further research than as a data driven monograph Interaction and Coevolution would go on to be considered a landmark study that pointed to the beginning of a new discipline Through chapters on antagonism mutualism and the effects of these interactions on populations speciation and community structure Thompson seeks to explain not only how interactions differ in the selection pressures they exert on species but also when interactions are most likely to lead to coevolution In this era of climate change and swiftly transforming environments the ideas Thompson puts forward in Interaction and Coevolution are more relevant than ever before

Conservation Biology Scott P. Carroll,Charles W. Fox,2008-09-15 The main goal of this book is to encourage and formalize the infusion of evolutionary thinking into mainstream conservation biology It reviews the evolutionary foundations of conservation issues and unifies conceptual and empirical advances in evolutionary conservation biology The book can be used either as a primary textbook or as a supplementary reading in an advanced undergraduate or graduate level course likely to be called Conservation Biology or in some cases Evolutionary Ecology The focus of chapters is on current concepts in evolution as they pertain to conservation and the empirical study of these concepts The balanced treatment avoids exhaustive reviews and overlapping duplication among the chapters Little background in genetics is assumed of the reader

Kelley Tilmon,2008-01-03 The intimate associations between plants and the insects that eat them have helped define and shape both groups for millions of years This pioneering volume is a comprehensive up to date treatment of the evolutionary biology of herbivorous insects including their relationships with host plants and natural enemies Chapters focus on the dynamic relationships between insects and plants from the standpoint of evolutionary change at different levels of biological organization individuals populations species and clades Written by prominent evolutionary biologists entomologists and ecologists the chapters are organized into three sections Evolution of Populations and Species Co and Macroevolutionary Radiation and Evolutionary Aspects of Pests Invasive Species and the Environment The volume is unified by the idea that understanding the ecological framework of the interactions between herbivorous insects and their host plants is fundamental to understanding their evolution Geographic Structure in a Symbiotic Mutualism Susanne Altermann,2009 Host

Thompson,2009-04-24 Traditional ecological approaches to species evolution have frequently studied too few species relatively small areas and relatively short time spans In The Coevolutionary Process John N Thompson advances a new conceptual approach to the evolution of species interactions the geographic mosaic theory of coevolution Thompson demonstrates how an integrated study of life histories genetics and the geographic structure of populations yields a broader understanding of coevolution or the development of reciprocal adaptations and specializations in interdependent species Using examples of species interactions from an enormous range of taxa Thompson examines how and when extreme specialization evolves in interdependent species and how geographic differences in specialization adaptation and the outcomes of interactions shape coevolution Through the geographic mosaic theory Thompson bridges the gap between the study of specialization and coevolution in local communities and the study of broader patterns seen in comparisons of the phylogenies of interacting species
