Golden Horse, 2004 Inspired by prehistoric iconic cave drawings Golden Horse graphically reimagines and reinscribes letterforms as anthropomorphic characters while maintaining both literary and kinetic narrative. In the text the golden horse of the title forms the anchoring metaphor for thought the neurological processes that result in both cognition and action. Thus a million year history of language is compressed and run forward and backward throughout the accordion fold book. The Golden Horse also counters the Biblical myth of the Golden Calf representing a positive contemporary manifestation of pagan belief in the co evolutionary nature shared by humans and other terrestrial species.
