

An extensive test programme led to the development and verification of an optional kit for the T77, including different changes on the brake and towbar/hydra legs, an alternative restraint device for the underside of the towbar, protection on the towbar legs and for the hydraulic brake line and the speed limiter control unit, strengthening of the V800, D800 and ATC vertical on the underside of the frontage and corner brackets ("show away pin") beneath the engine bracket. The deflector on the forward-rotating nose wheel is of such design that it cannot be blocked in the normal wheel and can Reising took the document to himself as third jet transport after the 507 and 575 in November 1944, although the formal commitment to put the new type into production had to wait until final military orders were forthcoming. In the event, this point was reached on 14 February 1945 when the German aviation authorities announced a contract for 75 He 163s for a price, including spares, of about £80 (£m 12.13 ten-marks). The launch decision came after a period of intensive development work.
