Cohen,2017-07-12 Underlying the anthropological study of humans is the principle that there is a reality to which a human must adapt for survival Populations must adapt to the realities of the physical world and maintain a proper fit between their biological makeup and the pressures of the various niches of the world Social groups must develop adaptive mechanisms in the organization of their social relations if there is to be order regularity and predictability in patterns of cooperation and competition This book presents an introduction to anthropology that is unified and made systematic by its focus on adaptations that have accompanied the evolution of humans from non human primates to inhabitants of vast urban areas in modern industrial societies Human Adaptation contains over forty outstanding essays that are intended to serve as an introduction to physical anthropology archeology and linguistics from the point of view of the processes of adaptation The organization of these selections contains a balance between biological and prehistoric cultural adaptations They provide coherence for the study of human evolution Several selections notably those in connection with linguistic adaptations deal with contemporary people in order to shed light on earlier evolutionary processes More than half of the selections deal with biological evolution This volume unifies the subject matter of anthropology within a single and powerful explanatory framework and incorporates the work of the most renowned anthropological experts on man The Family and Human Adaptation Theodore Lidz,1961 Moral Partiality Yong Li,2022-07-29 Situated within the framework of Confucian family oriented ethics this book explores the issue of familial partiality and specifically discusses whether it is morally praiseworthy to love one s family partially In reviewing the tension between familial partiality and egalitarian impartiality from different perspectives while also drawing on binary metrics to understand the issue that is the weak and strong sense of familial partiality in Confucian moral theory the author carefully discusses the efficacy of three major arguments to justify moral partiality It is concluded that the tree argument fails to justify moral partiality in Confucianism the evolutionary argument only justifies moral partiality in the weak sense that we should devote more resources to our family and the care argument fails to justify moral partiality in the strong sense that family takes priority in any case even at the expense of the principle of justice Seeking to address the quandary the author advances an alternative argument based on Thomas Aquinas theory of love to interpret Confucian view of partial relationships holding that partial treatment is assumed in partial relationships The title will appeal to scholars and students interested in Confucianism Chinese philosophy moral philosophy and comparative philosophy The Family and Human Adaptation Theodore Lidz,1963 The Evolution of Human Adaptations John J.
