The Field Of Cloth Of Gold Men And Manners In 1520:

The Field of Cloth of Gold Joycelyne Gledhill Russell, 1969 The book describes a meeting between England's King Henry VIII and France's Francis I in a field near Calais. Each King brought an army of followers all dressed to impress the other king which resulted in a Field of Gold.

The Reign of Henry VIII Diarmaid MacCulloch, 1995-10-15 This collection of essays by leading scholars and researchers in early Tudor studies provides an up to date discussion of the politics, policy and piety of Henry VIII's reign. It explores such areas as the reform of central and local government, foreign policy, relations between leading politicians, life at Court, Henry's first divorce and the break with Rome, literature and the government's exploitation of it and the growth of evangelical religion in Henry's England. Particular consideration is given to the controversies which have arisen about the reign among modern historians and there is an effort to assess the personality of Henry himself.

John Skelton and the Politics of the 1520s Greg Walker, 2002-08-22 A detailed examination of the poet John Skelton's satirical assault upon Cardinal Wolsey.

Royal Journeys in Early Modern Europe Anthony Musson, J. P. D. Cooper, 2022-11-22 Authored by a unique combination of university academics and heritage professionals, this book offers new perspectives on journeys made by Henry VIII and other monarchs, their political and social impact and the logistics required in undertaking such trips. It explores the performance of kingship and queenship by itinerant monarchs, investigating how, by a variety of means, they engaged and interacted with their subjects and the practical and symbolic functions associated with these activities. Moving beyond the purely English experience, it provides a European dimension by comparing progresses in England and France. Royal marriage and the royal progress share common features which are considered through an analysis of the trans-European journeys made by future spouses, notably Anne of Cleves. Also, the book reveals the significance of the art and architecture of houses and palaces and how the celebrated meeting of English and French kings at the Field of Cloth of Gold in 1520 was part of a wider diplomatic performance full of symbolism, including the exchange of gifts and socialising between the two royal courts. Drawing on contemporary art, material culture and surviving buildings, the book will be of interest to all who enjoy the intrigue and splendour of sixteenth-century courts.

The Medieval Tournament as Spectacle Alan V. Murray, Karen Watts, 2020 Fresh insights into the development of the tournament as an opportunity for social display.

Flemish and Dutch Artists in Early Modern England Mary Bryan H. Curd, 2017-07-05 By examining their production practices in a variety of genres including manuscript illustration, glass painting and staining, tapestry manufacture, portrait painting and engraving, this book explores how Netherlandish artists migrating to England in the early modern period overcame difficulties raised by their outsider status. This study examines for the first time in this context the challenges of alien status to artistic production and the effectiveness of cooperation as a countermeasure. The author demonstrates that collaboration was chief among the strategies that these foreigners chose to secure a position in London's changing art market. Curd's exploration of these collaborations primarily follows Pierre Bourdieu's model of establishment and challenger in which dominance in a field of cultural production depends upon how much cultural political and economic capital can be accumulated and the effectiveness of the strategies used to confront competition. The analysis presented here challenges received opinion that a collaborative work is only a joint effort of artists working together on a single monument by demonstrating that the participation of patrons and middlemen can also shape the final appearance of a work of art. Furthermore, this book shows that the strategic use of collaboration served the goal of competition by helping to establish foreign artists in the London art market and suggests that their coping strategies have implications for the study of immigrant behaviors today.

Empire and Nation in Early English Renaissance Literature

Stewart James Mottram, 2008. Sensitive readings of Renaissance texts offer new insights into the perception of imperialism in the sixteenth century. The complex topics of colonialism, empire, and nation run throughout English Renaissance literature. Here the author moves beyond recent work on England's British colonial interests, arguing for England's self-image in the sixteenth century as an empire of itself, part of a culture which deliberately set itself apart from Britain and Europe. In the first section of the book, he explores England's self-image as empire in the Arthurian and classical pageants of two Tudor royal entries into the City of London: Charles V's in 1522 and Anne Boleyn's in 1533. Part Two focuses on the culture of English Bible reading and its influence on England's imperial self-image in the Tudor period. He offers fresh new readings of texts by Richard Morison, William Tyndale, John Bale, Nicholas Udall, and William Lightfoot, among other authors represented. Dr. STEWART MOTTRAM is Research Lecturer, Institute for Medieval and Early Modern Studies, Aberystwyth University.

Guillaume Budé and Humanism in the Reign of Francis I David O. McNeil, 1975. The Papacy and the Levant, 1204-1571 Kenneth M. Setton, 1984. This is the third of four volumes which trace the history of the later Crusades and papal relations with the Levant from the accession of Innocent III in 1198 to the reign of Pius V and the battle of Lepanto 1566-1571. From the mid-fourteenth century to the conclusion of his work, the author has drawn heavily upon unpublished materials collected in the course of more than twenty palaeographical journeys to the Archivio Segreto Vaticano and the Archivi di Stato in Venice, Mantua, Modena, Milan, Siena, Florence, and the Archives of the Order of the Hospitallers at Malta. Volumes I, II, and IV are available at www.amphilsoc.org.

Guillaume Budé and Humanism in the Reign of Francis I, David

Ogden McNeil, 1971. Renaissance Theatre Ronald W. Vince, 1984-04-24. Vince introduces readers to the sources of information available to the theatre historian and to some of the methods that have been used in the interpretation of that evidence. He provides an analytical survey of the principal written and artifactual evidence for the history of the Renaissance theatres of Italy, Spain, England, and France. The book includes a discussion of the various types of evidence available to the theatre historian, with special reference to those sources that have proved to be of central importance, and an evaluative sketch of some of the most significant scholarship. Wherever possible, the reader is directed to original documents and sources that reproduce primary evidence. Each chapter concludes with a reference bibliography.

general expansion in the public roles of the Hospitaller Prior not just under the most politically important Priors. It analyses the Priors' interactions with financially important merchants and the terms that three Priors served as treasurers of England. Finally, by revealing how the order lost political control of its estates, it contributes to the broader themes of secularisation and emerging nationalism.
