Goings, 1994 Mammy and Uncle Mose examines the production and consumption of black collectibles and memorabilia from the 1880s to the late 1950s Black collectibles objects made in or with the image of a black person were everyday items such as advertising cards housewares salt and pepper shakers cookie jars spoon rests etc toys and games postcards souvenirs and decorative knick knacks These objects were almost universally derogatory with racially exaggerated features that helped prove that African Americans were different and inferior These items of material culture were props that helped reinforce the new racist ideology that began emerging after Reconstruction Then as the nation changed the images created of black people by white people changed From the 1880s to the 1930s black people were portrayed as very dark bug eyed nappy headed childlike stupid lazy deferential but happy From the 1930s to the late 1950s racial attitudes shifted again African Americans while still portrayed as happy servants had brighter skin tones and images of black women were slimmed down By contextualizing black collectibles within America s complex social history Kenneth W Goings has opened a fascinating perspective on American history
