Moral Obligations and Sovereignty in International Relations Andrea Paras,2018-12-07 How has contemporary humanitarianism become the dominant framework for how states construct their moral obligations to non citizens To answer this question this book examines the history of humanitarianism in international relations by tracing the relationship between transnational moral obligation and sovereignty from the 16th century to the present Whereas existing studies of humanitarianism examine the diffusion of such norms or their transmission by non state actors this volume explicitly links humanitarianism to the broader concept of sovereignty Rather than only focusing on the expansion of humanitarian norms it examines how sovereignty both challenges and sets limits on them Humanitarian norms are shown to act just as much to reinforce the logic of sovereignty as they do to challenge it Contemporary humanitarianism is often described in universalist terms which suggests that humanitarian activity transcends borders in order to provide assistance to those who suffer In contrast this book suggests a more counterintuitive and complex understanding of moral obligation namely that humanitarian discourse not only provides a framework for legitimate humanitarian action but it also establishes the limits of moral obligation It will be of great interest to a wide audience of scholars and students in international relations theory constructivism and norms and humanitarianism and politics

The persistence of memory Jessica Moody,2020-09-04 An Open Access edition of this book is available on our website and on the OAPEN Library funded by the LUP Open Access Author Fund

The Persistence of Memory is a history of the public memory of transatlantic slavery in the largest slave trading port city in Europe from the end of the 18th century into the 21st century from history to memory Mapping this public memory over more than two centuries reveals the ways in which dissonant pasts rather than being forgotten histories persist over time as a contested public debate This public memory intimately intertwined with constructions of place and identity has been shaped by legacies of transatlantic slavery itself as well as other events contexts and phenomena along its trajectory revealing the ways in which current narratives and debate around difficult histories have histories of their own By the 21st century Liverpool once the slaving capital of the world had more permanent and long lasting memory work relating to transatlantic slavery than any other British city The long history of how Liverpool home to Britain's oldest continuous black presence has publicly remembered its own slaving past how this has changed over time and why is of central significance and relevance to current and ongoing efforts to face contested histories particularly those surrounding race slavery and empire

West Indian Slavery and British Abolition, 1783-1807 David Beck Ryden,2010-03-29 Ryden challenges conventional wisdom regarding the political and economic motivations behind the final decision to abolish the British slave trade in 1807 His research illustrates that a faltering sugar economy after 1799 tipped the scales in favour of the abolitionist argument and helped secure the passage of abolition

Scottish Trade with German Ports, 1700-1770 Philipp Robinson Rössner,2008 The monograph contributes to the field of eighteenth century comparative European history Based mainly on British and German customs accounts it is a bilateral case study of the basic working mechanisms within a much larger framework the eighteenth century Atlantic economy The Scottish customs records are unique insofar as they allow precise reconstructions of Scotland's trade volume in yearly series after 1743 which can be broken down by singular countries commodities As the Scottish German trade pattern linked back into the Atlantic framework it is hoped that the present model study will encourage further research into cross country studies of North Sea and Atlantic trade the most dynamic branch of European commerce post 1700
