Conflict Resolution Theory and Practice Dennis J. D. Sandole, Hugo Van der Merwe, 1993      The Psychology of Environmental Problems Deborah Du Nann Winter, Susan M. Koger, 2004 This work applies psychological theory and research to environmental problems After outlining environmental difficulties it shows how principles from the major areas of psychology can be applied to selected environmental problems      Travel Narratives in Dialogue Shannon Marie Butler, 2008 The Currents in Comparative Romantic Languages and Literatures series was founded in 1987 and actively solicits book length manuscripts which treat aspects of romance languages and literatures Originally established for works dealing with two or more romance literatures the series has broadened its horizons and now includes studies on themes within a single literature or between different literatures civilizations art music film and social movements as well as comparative linguistics

The End of Progress Amy Allen, 2016-01-12 While post and decolonial theorists have thoroughly debunked the idea of historical progress as a Eurocentric imperialist and neocolonialist fallacy many of the most prominent contemporary thinkers associated with the Frankfurt School Jürgen Habermas Axel Honneth and Rainer Forst have defended ideas of progress development and modernity and have even made such ideas central to their normative claims Can the Frankfurt School's goal of radical social change survive this critique And what would a decolonized critical theory look like Amy Allen fractures critical theory from within by dispensing with its progressive reading of history while retaining its notion of progress as a political imperative so eloquently defended by Adorno Critical theory according to Allen is the best resource we have for achieving emancipatory social goals In reimagining a decolonized critical theory after the end of progress she rescues it from oblivion and gives it a future      Ariadne's Thread Mary E. Clark, 1989-07-24 An analysis of the contemporary world and its future The author begins by assessing whether there are limits to growth and if so how we can change our attitude and prevent the destruction which seems inevitable      Models, Measurement, and Metrology Extending the SI William P. Fisher, Jr., Leslie Pendrill, 2024-09-23 The book focuses on the extension of quality assured measurement and metrology into psychological and social domains This is not only feasible and achievable but also a pressing concern Significant progress in developing a common conceptual system for measurement across the sciences has been made in recent collaborations between metrologists and psychometricians as reported in the chapters of this book Modeling estimation and interpretation of objectively reproducible unit quantities that support both general comparability and adaptation to unique local circumstances are demonstrated in fields as diverse as artificial intelligence justice and beauty perception      Gandhi Meets Primetime Shanti Kumar, 2010-10-01 Shanti Kumar's Gandhi Meets Primetime examines how cultural imaginations of national identity have been transformed by the rapid growth of satellite and cable television in postcolonial India To evaluate the growing influence of foreign and domestic satellite and cable channels since 1991 the book considers a wide range of materials including contemporary television programming historical archives legal documents policy statements academic writings and journalistic accounts Kumar argues that India's hybrid national identity is manifested in the discourses found in this variety of empirical sources He deconstructs representations of Mahatma Gandhi as the Father of the Nation on the state sponsored network Doordarshan and those found on Rupert Murdoch's STAR TV network The book closely analyzes print advertisements to trace the changing status of the television set as a cultural commodity in postcolonial India and examines publicity brochures promotional materials and programming schedules of Indian language networks to outline the role of vernacular media in the discourse of electronic capitalism The empirical evidence is illuminated by theoretical analyses that combine diverse approaches such as cultural studies poststructuralism and postcolonial criticism

Between Reason and History David S. Owen, 2012-02-01 Between Reason and History examines the role of the idea of progress both in Jürgen Habermas's critical social theory and in critical social theory in general The reception to Habermas's magnum opus The Theory of Communicative Action has tended to downplay the theory of social evolution it contains but there are no in depth examinations of this aspect of Habermas's critical theory This book fills this gap by providing a comprehensive and detailed examination of Habermas's theory of social evolution its significance within the wider scope of his critical social theory and the importance of a theoretical understanding of history for any adequate critical social theory

The Idea of Democracy in the Modern Era Ralph Ketcham, 2004 Although the last half of the twentieth century has been called the Age of Democracy the twenty first has already demonstrated the fragility of its apparent triumph as the dominant form of government throughout the world Reassessing the fate of democracy for our time distinguished political theorist Ralph Ketcham traces the evolution of this idea over the course of four hundred years He traces democracy's bumpy ride in a book that is both an exercise in the history of ideas and an explication of democratic theory Ketcham examines the rationales for democratic government identifies the fault lines that separate democracy from good government and suggests ways to strengthen it in order to meet future challenges Drawing on an encyclopedic command of history and politics he examines the rationales that have been offered for democratic government over the course of four manifestations of modernity that he identifies in the Western and East Asian world since 1600 Ketcham first considers the fundamental axioms established by theorists of the Enlightenment Bacon Locke Jefferson and reflected in America's founding then moves on to the mostly post Darwinian critiques by Bentham Veblen Dewey and others that produced theories of the liberal corporate state He explains late nineteenth century Asian responses to democracy as the third manifestation grounded in Confucian respect for communal and hierarchical norms followed by late twentieth century postmodernist thought that views democratic states as oppressive and seeks to empower marginalized groups Ketcham critiques the first second and fourth modernity rationales for democracy and suggests that the Asian approach may represent a reconciliation of ancient wisdom and modern science better suited to today's world. He advocates a reorientation of democracy that de-emphasizes group or identity politics and restores the wholeness of the civic community proposing a return to the Jeffersonian universalism that which informed the founding of the United States if democracy is to flourish in a fifth manifestation. The Idea of Democracy in the Modern Era is an erudite interdisciplinary work of great breadth and complexity that looks to the past in order to reframe the future. With its global overview and comparative insights it will stimulate discussion of how democracy can survive and thrive in the coming era.

Winner of the 2017 Nautilus Silver Award. This fresh perspective on crucial questions of history identifies the root metaphors that cultures have used to construct meaning in their world. It offers a glimpse into the minds of a vast range of different peoples: early hunter-gatherers and farmers, ancient Egyptians, traditional Chinese sages, the founders of Christianity, trail blazers of the Scientific Revolution and those who constructed our modern consumer society. Taking the reader on an archaeological exploration of the mind, the author, an entrepreneur and sustainability leader, uses recent findings in cognitive science and systems theory to reveal the hidden layers of values that form today's cultural norms. Uprooting the tired clichés of the science-religion debate, he shows how medieval Christian rationalism acted as an incubator for scientific thought which in turn shaped our modern vision of the conquest of nature. The author probes our current crisis of unsustainability and argues that it is not an inevitable result of human nature but is culturally driven, a product of particular mental patterns that could conceivably be reshaped. By shining a light on our possible futures, the book foresees a coming struggle between two contrasting views of humanity: one driving to a technological endgame of artificially enhanced humans, the other enabling a sustainable future arising from our intrinsic connectedness with each other and the natural world. This struggle, it concludes, is one in which each of us will play a role through the meaning we choose to forge from the lives we lead.
