Clarke E. Cochran

Social Life And The Crowd:

The Community Life of Older People in Ireland Carmel Gallagher, 2008 This book is a contemporary sociological account of the lives of older people in two different communities in Ireland one urban and one rural The book is based on primary research that examined the social and community participation of older people in Rathmore and Rathbeg using both ethnographic and survey approaches The data presented provides insights into the nature of a community in a rapidly changing society and into older people's contributions to that community It points to realms of activity that offer genuine meaning and value in older people's lives A model of connectedness is developed in the study that identifies key characteristics and processes involved in sociability and solidarity within neighbourhoods and communities A typology of ten relational patterns describes the different ways in which older adults may be connected within their communities The author proposes an explanatory framework for understanding the complex and varied connections between people in communities The book also demonstrates what older people in Ireland perceive as a good life

Religion in Public and Private Life (Routledge Revivals) Clarke E. Cochran, 2014-06-27 Religious crosses the spheres of both the private life and the public institution In a liberal democracy public and private interests and goals prove to be inseparable Clarke Cochran's interdisciplinary study brings political theory and the sociology of religion together in a fresh interpretation of liberal culture First published in 1990 this analysis begins with a reassessment of the nature of the public and the private in relation to the political The controversy over religion and politics is examined in light of such contested issues of political life as sexuality abortion and the changing nature of the family Clarifying a number of debates central to contemporary society this timely reissue will be of particular value to students with an interest in the relationship between religious society and politics
