Social Dynamics Of The Life Course Transitions Institutions And Interrelations:

Social Dynamics of the Life Course Walter R. Heinz, Victor W. Marshall, In the last two decades research on the life course has successfully combined and integrated different and rather isolated fields of social concerns such as the labor market family solidarity education employment retirement and social policy It has also developed a special focus on crucial problems of sociological research which includes the understanding of micromacro phenomena the dynamics of social change and international comparisons Contributors to this volume take an international comparative approach in applying the life course theoretical framework to issues of work and career Life course research focuses on the relationship between institutions and individuals across the life span and illuminates the impact of modernization on the shaping of biographies Industrial service societies are characterized by historically new contingencies of living arrangements and biographies These contingencies differ according to the extent to which life course patterns are regulated by social institutions In the continental European context institutional frameworks continue to define the timing and sequencing of transitions across the life course In less regulated market societies like the United States and Great Britain biographies and living arrangements are shaped more by the interaction of markets social networks and individual decisions In active welfare states institutional resources and rules continue to mediate the effects of social change on the life course What the editors and contributors to this fine compendium anticipate is a change on the cultural level toward more equality This trend supports young people and women in particular in their expectations concerning an egalitarian relationship This expectation is not taken for granted from the point of view of the male partner but has to be negotiated in decisionmaking processes as an issue that concerns the couple as a unit Thus the way in which people interact is profoundly impacted by the values and goals of equity demands Walter R Heinz is professor of sociology and social psychology and director Graduate School of Social Sciences University of Bremen Victor W Marshall is professor of sociology and director of the Institute on Aging University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Carolina

Social Dynamics of the Life Course Walter R. Heinz, Victor W. Marshall, 2003 In the last two decades research on the life course has successfully combined and integrated different and rather isolated fields of social concerns such as the labor market family solidarity education employment retirement and social policy It has also developed a special focus on crucial problems of sociological research which includes the understanding of micromacro phenomena the dynamics of social change and international comparisons Contributors to this volume take an international comparative approach in applying the life course theoretical framework to issues of work and career Life course research focuses on the relationship between institutions and individuals across the life span and illuminates the impact of modernization on the shaping of biographies Industrial service societies are characterized by historically new contingencies of living arrangements and biographies These contingencies differ according to the extent to which life course patterns are regulated by social institutions In the continental European context institutional frameworks continue to define the timing and sequencing of transitions across the life course In less regulated market societies like the United States and Great Britain biographies and living arrangements are shaped more by the interaction of markets social networks and individual decisions In active welfare states institutional resources and rules continue to mediate the effects of social change on the life course What the editors and contributors to this fine compendium anticipate is a change on the cultural level toward more equality This trend supports young people and women in particular in their expectations concerning an egalitarian relationship This expectation is not taken for granted from the point of view of the male partner but has to be negotiated in decisionmaking processes as an issue that concerns the couple as a unit Thus the way in which people interact is profoundly impacted by the values and goals of equity demands Walter R Hein is professor of sociology and social psychology and director Graduate School of Social Sciences University of Bremen Victor W Marshall is professor of sociology and director of the Institute on Aging University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill Carolina Convergence, Persistence and Diversity in Male and Female Careers Daniela Grunow, 2006 Little comparative knowledge exists on how the radical transformations that constitute the late 20th century s era of globalization have affected gender relations and their particular structural manifestation on the labor market thereby neglecting a core element of the changes and problems currently underway This book analyses how converging tendencies in the life courses and employment careers of men and women interfere with developments of increasing diversity and instability both within and between sexes as economies move from industrial to global Using the shifting welfare regimes of West Germany and Denmark as illustrative evidence of how national context genders the risks and chances associated with globalization and increasing employment flexibility this study provides a timely comprehensive longitudinal analysis of the gendered career consequences of recent political and economic change Aging as a Social Process Barry D. McPherson, 2004 Aging as a Social Process Canadian Perspectives is the most comprehensive and up to date survey of the topic in Canada Employing a variety of theoretical and methodological approaches it explains why aging is not just a biological process but also a complex social one Each chapter has been rewritten and updated to include 2001 Census data and this fourth edition includes even more made in Canada material than its predecessor College Student Journal , 2007 Korea Journal , 2016 Social Problems , 1953 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2003 In View of Academic Careers and Career-Making Scholars Victor N. establish solid approaches and own vocabularies Through a variety of case studies written by international contributors this volume addresses emerging topics by using the tools of border studies postcolonial discourse and globalization theory The multiple perspectives provided here emphasize the interaction between migrants and hosts as material discursive and historical The chapters in this volume view identities as mobile and in constant flux constructed and reconstructed repeatedly in historical and cultural encounters with several others As a result of this dynamic established stereotypes and images are challenged and revised in the analyses here The book concludes that cultural identities are increasingly visible as results of large scale global mobility In so doing it challenges views that address ethnicity as an unambiguous category and reveals that the making of such identities is contradictory and even conflicting Nova acta Leopoldina ,1933
