The Neural Basis of Human Behaviour Murray Llewellyn Barr, 1951 The Neural Basis of Mentalizing Michael Gilead, Kevin N. Ochsner, 2021-05-11 Humans have a unique ability to understand the beliefs, emotions, and intentions of others, a capacity often referred to as mentalizing. Much research in psychology and neuroscience has focused on delineating the mechanisms of mentalizing and examining the role of mentalizing processes in other domains of cognitive and affective functioning. The purpose of the book is to provide a comprehensive overview of the current research on the mechanisms of mentalizing at the neural, algorithmic, and computational levels of analysis. The book includes contributions from prominent researchers in the field of social cognitive and affective neuroscience, as well as from related disciplines, e.g., cognitive social developmental and clinical psychology, psychiatry, philosophy, primatology. The contributors review their latest research in order to compile an authoritative source of knowledge on the psychological and brain bases of the unique human capacity to think about the mental states of others. The intended audience is researchers and students in the fields of social cognitive and affective neuroscience and related disciplines, such as neuroeconomics, cognitive neuroscience, developmental neuroscience, social cognition, social psychology, developmental psychology, cognitive psychology, and affective science. Secondary audiences include researchers in decision science, economics, judgment and decision making, philosophy of mind, and psychiatry. The Neural Basis of Hyper-Adaptability in Humans and Animals Jun Izawa, Jun Ota, Tomohiko Takei, Belén Rubio Ballester, 2023-03-28 The Neural Basis of Human Belief Systems Frank Krueger, Jordan Grafman, 2012-08-21 Is the everyday understanding of belief susceptible to scientific investigation? Belief is one of the most commonly used yet unexplained terms in neuroscience. Beliefs can be seen as forms of mental representations and one of the building blocks of our conscious thoughts. This book provides an interdisciplinary overview of what we currently know about the neural basis of human belief systems and how different belief systems are implemented in the human brain. The chapters in this volume explain how the neural correlates of beliefs mediate a range of explicit and implicit behaviours ranging from moral decision making to the practice of religion Drawing inferences from philosophy psychology psychiatry religion and cognitive neuroscience the book has important implications for understanding how different belief systems are implemented in the human brain and outlines the directions which research on the cognitive neuroscience of beliefs should take in the future The Neural Basis of Human Belief Systems will be of great interest to researchers in the fields of psychology philosophy psychiatry and cognitive neuroscience

The Neural Basis of Behavior A.L. Beckman,2012-12-06 The Symposium on the Neural Basis of Behavior from which this volume was produced was held at the Alfred I duPont Institute on June 7 and 8 1979 It brought outstanding investigators in four fundamental areas of behavioral neurobiology into juxtaposition there to provide an integrated multidisciplinary perspective on behaviorally significant brain mechanisms Particular emphasis was placed on topics of interest to neurobiologists as well as to clinicians in neurological and psychiatric disciplines The session on central activity states was selected as an appropriate point of departure because the continuum of brain activity states extending from the natural depression of hibernation through the heightened levels of arousal accompanying learning is such a clear and basic determinant of behavioral output The papers on learning and memory outlined diverse approaches to understanding the basis of these interrelated CNS capabilities that constitute the neural basis of behavioral adaptation Finally the topics of affective states and mechanisms of pain provided a focus of clinically relevant discussion covering multiple levels of functional and anatomical CNS organization The success of the symposium bore testimony to the excellence of the presentations and to the symbiosis of their content both are preserved herein The support and encouragement of Dr G Dean MacEwen Medical Director of the Alfred I duPont Institute is gratefully acknowledged Alexander L Beckman Wilmington July 1979 The Neural Basis of Behavior PART I Central Activity States Copyright 1982 Spectrum Publications Inc
