Slavery In Africa Historical And Anthropological Perspectives:

Slavery in Africa Suzanne Miers, Igor Kopytoff, 1977 This collection of sixteen short papers together with a complex and very much longer introductory essay by the editors on African Slavery as an Institution of Marginality constitutes an impressive attempt by anthropologists and historians to explore describe and analyze some of the various kinds of human bondage within a number of precolonial African societies. It is important to note that in spite of the precolonial emphasis of the volume all of the essays are based at least partly on anthropological or ethnohistorical field research carried out since 1959. All but one have been augmented greatly by more conventional historical research in published as well as archival sources. And although the volume's focus is upon the structures and conditions of servitude within the several African societies described many of the essays illustrate and some discuss the conceptual as well as the practical difficulties of separating the institutions and customs of domestic African slavery from those of the European dominated commercial slave trade in which many of the societies participated from JSTOR <http://www.jstor.org> May 24 2013

Transformations in Slavery Paul E. Lovejoy, 2011-10-10 This history of African slavery from the fifteenth to the early twentieth centuries examines how indigenous African slavery developed within an international context. Paul E. Lovejoy discusses the medieval Islamic slave trade and the Atlantic trade as well as the enslavement process and the marketing of slaves. He considers the impact of European abolition and assesses slavery's role in African history. The book corrects the accepted interpretation that African slavery was mild and resulted in the slaves' assimilation. Instead slaves were used extensively in production although the exploitation methods and the relationships to world markets differed from those in the Americas. Nevertheless slavery in Africa like slavery in the Americas developed from its position on the periphery of capitalist Europe. This new edition revises all statistical material on the slave trade demography and incorporates recent research and an updated bibliography.

Slave Cultures and the Cultures of Slavery Stephan Palmié, 1995 Historians and anthropologists focus on the cultural dimensions of slavery in various geographical and historical settings. They deal with conceptual and theoretical problems in current slavery studies as well as issues including Native American slaveholding the integration of former slaves into West African societies slave life on Caribbean sugar plantations slave cultures in Suriname female slave owners on the Gold Coast and Maroon communities. Women and Slavery: Africa, the Indian Ocean world, and the medieval north Atlantic Gwyn Campbell, Suzanne Miers, Joseph Calder Miller, 2007 The particular experience of enslaved women across different cultures and many different eras is the focus of this work

Capitalism and Cloves Sarah K. Croucher, 2014-10-29 This study of nineteenth century clove plantations on Zanzibar provides an important contribution to debates in global historical archaeology. Broadening plantation archaeology beyond the Atlantic World this work addresses plantations run by Omani Arab colonial rulers of Zanzibar. Drawing on archaeological and historical data this book argues for the need to examine non Western contexts of colonialism and capitalism as coeval with those in the North.

Atlantic World This work explores themes of capitalism colonialism plantation landscapes African Diaspora communities gender and sexuality locally produced and imported goods in historic contexts and Islamic historical archaeology

Rethinking American History in a Global Age Thomas Bender, 2002-05-14 In rethinking and reframing the American national narrative in a wider context the contributors to this volume ask questions about both nationalism and the discipline of history itself The essays offer fresh ways of thinking about the traditional themes and periods of American history By locating the study of American history in a transnational context they examine the history of nation making and the relation of the United States to other nations and to transnational developments What is now called globalization is here placed in a historical context A cast of distinguished historians from the United States and abroad examines the historiographical implications of such a reframing and offers alternative interpretations of large questions of American history ranging from the era of European contact to democracy and reform from environmental and economic development and migration experiences to issues of nationalism and identity But the largest issue explored is basic to all histories How does one understand teach and write a national history even as one recognizes that the territorial boundaries do not fully contain that history and that within that bounded territory the society is highly differentiated marked by multiple solidarities and identities Rethinking American History in a Global Age advances an emerging but important conversation marked by divergent voices many of which are represented here The various essays explore big concepts and offer historical narratives that enrich the content and context of American history The aim is to provide a history that more accurately reflects the dimensions of American experience and better connects the past with contemporary concerns for American identity structures of power and world presence Pawnship, Slavery, and Colonialism in Africa Paul E. Lovejoy, Toyin Falola, 2003 Exploring the age old institution of African debt bondage in which people are held as collateral in lieu of debts that have been incurred these twenty essays look at the various effects of this practice on such issues as kinship gender and the international slave trade Continuing well into the 1930s because of the economic demands enforced by European colonial rule pawnship and slavery in the event of default on a loan has had a particularly detrimental effect on women and children demonstrating the links between credit servility and gender in large parts of Africa Research in African Literatures , 2009 Vol 1 spring 1970 include A Bibliography of American doctoral dissertations on African literature compiled by Nancy J Schmidt Women and Slavery in Africa Claire C.
