Skill Acquisition And Human Performance:

Skill Acquisition and Human Performance Robert W. Proctor, Addie Dutta, 1995 Providing a coherent picture of how research on skills is conducted this volume brings together findings from a number of disciplines to enrich our current understanding of human skills Taking an information processing approach the authors provide an historical and conceptual introduction and examine research studies in which comparatively simple laboratory tasks are used to investigate skill They then consider performance of more complex tasks that impose greater demands on attention and memory The book concludes by focusing on expertise in specific real world situations discussing applications to areas such as training the role of individual differences in abilities situational performance shaping factors and th

Davies, Gerald Matthews, Rob B. Stammers, Steve J. Westerman, 2013-10-23 Human Performance provides the student and researcher with a comprehensive and accessible review of performance in the real world and essential cognitive science theory Four main sections cover both theoretical and practical issues Section One outlines the perspectives on performance offered by contemporary cognitive science including information processing and neuroscience perspectives Section Two presents a multi level view of the performer as biological organism information processor and intentional agent It reviews the development of the cognitive theory of performance through experimental studies and also looks at practical issues such as human error Section Three reviews the impact of stress factors such as noise fatigue and illness on performance Section Four assesses individual and group differences in performance with accounts of ability personality and aging

Enhancing Human Performance Craig Speelman, 2014-03-17 The chapters in this book have their origins in papers presented at one of two conferences organised by the Global Science and Technology Forum GSTF the Annual International Conference on Human Resource Management and Professional Development HRM and PD 2012 and the Annual Conference on Cognitive and Behavioural Psychology CBP 2013 both held in Singapore On the basis of these presentations authors were invited to re work their papers to fit within the theme of enhancing human performance This theme was deliberately broad so as to include a wide range of research areas and yet was sufficiently specific that the chapters would cohere as different perspectives on the factors that affect human performance This collection of chapters reflects the disparate contexts in which human performance is examined and the many factors that impinge on performance in a negative way and the conditions under which performance can be improved The book explores topics such as the effects of a computer maths game on the acquisition of arithmetic skills in school children the effects of exercise on cognition in children with autism spectrum disorder the influence of bilingualism on visuospatial memory the potential beneficial effects of beliefs in the extraordinary e g paranormal phenomena an examination of how attention to food related images is affected as a function of food deprivation the factors that affect the perceived effort of credit repayment the impact of the emotional valence of faces on the spatial direction of attention emotional eating in Thailand the relationship between work roles worker characteristics and work

Rosenbaum,2009-09-11 Motor Control is a complex process that involves the brain muscles limbs and often external objects It underlies motion balance stability coordination and our interaction with others and technology This book is a comprehensive introduction to motor control covering a complex topic in an approachable way encompassing the psychological physiological and computational approaches to motor control Human Motor Control 2e cuts across all movement related disciplines physical education dance physical therapy robotics etc This second edition incorporates advances to the field and integrates throughout the book how research harkens back to four critical questions how do we select our actions of the many actions possible How are these behaviors sequenced for appropriate order and timing between them How does perception integrate with motor control And how are perceptual motor skills acquired As before the book retains its signature organization around activity systems These activity systems include walking looking reaching drawing and writing keyboarding speaking and singing and smiling Chapters here exemplify rather than encompass all the behaviors related to them Hence smiling discusses physical and neural control of the face used in other expressions besides smiling as well as the origins of emotional expression and the importance of emotion expression in social interaction These chapters on activity systems are preceded by chapters on basics with an introduction and information on the physiological and psychological foundations of movement The last section discusses integration of movements individual differences theories of motor control and the contributions of both genetics and technology to motor control Special features of the second edition Organization by major activity systems New brain imaging social action embodied cognition advances in genetics and technology Detailed treatment of motor neuroscience Further Readings section added to each chapter Retains unique organization of first edition Part 1 on Preliminaries Part 2 on Activity Systems Part 3 on Principles and Prospects Emphasizes exciting advances in the field and promising new directions Well illustrated with entertaining figures Which Degree?,1985 Building Predictive Human Performance Models of Skill Acquisition in a Data Entry Task ,2006 This paper presents a predictive model of a simple but important data entry task The task requires participants to perceive and encode information on the screen locate the corresponding keys for the information on different layouts of the keyboard and enter the information Since data entry is a central component in most human machine interaction a predictive model of performance will provide useful information that informs interface design and effectiveness of training We created a cognitive model of the data entry task based on the ACT R 5 0 architecture The same model provided good fits to three existing data sets which demonstrated the effects of fatigue with prolonged work repetition priming depth of processing and the suppression of subvocal rehearsal The model also makes predictions on how performance deteriorates with different delays after training how different amounts of rehearsal during training affect retention and how re training helps retention of skills    Motor Learning and Human Performance Robert N.
