Brooks, Nikkole Salter, Danai Gurira, Diana Son, Young Jean Lee, 2013-12-02 Post black refers to an emerging trend within black arts to find new and multiple expressions of blackness unburdened by the social and cultural expectations of blackness of the past and moving beyond the conventional binary of black and white. Reflecting this multiplicity of perspectives, the plays in this collection explode the traditional ways of representing black families on the American stage and create new means to consider the interplay of race with questions of class, gender, and sexuality. They engage and critique current definitions of black and African American identity as well as previous limitations placed on what constitutes blackness and black theatre. Written by the emerging stars of American theatre such as Eisa Davis and Marcus Gardley, the plays explore themes as varied as family and individuality, alienation and gentrification, and reconciliation and belonging. They demonstrate a wide range of formal and structural innovations for the American theatre and reflect the important ways in which contemporary playwrights are expanding the American dramatic canon with new and diverse means of representation. Edited by two leading US scholars in black drama, Harry J. Elam Jr. (Stanford) and Douglas A. Jones Jr. (Princeton), this cutting-edge anthology gathers together some of the most exciting new American plays, selected by a rigorous academic backbone and explored in depth by supporting critical material.
