The Big Backyard Building:

Back Yard Critter Tales The Story Lady, 2001-10-31 For years I had enjoyed my back yard just sitting and relaxing in the warmth of its sunshine the coolness of its shade and the beauty of its gardens But not until recently did I ever surmise for one moment how many backyard critters one could have visiting or living there So I decided to watch and study any of these critters that made themselves apparent to me As I would sit and watch these critters I kept thinking Why all these critters large or small must have a story to tell Through your imagination these critters will lead you through their tales of fun and excitement with some unexpected twists and turns around every corner ENJOY The House on Maple Drive Edna May Cieslewicz, 2008-08-15

In the house on Maple Drive three women have vanished from the same house on the same day One is an RN working and living there caring for the elderly invalid owner She goes out on her day off comes home early because of an impending storm never to be seen again A young lady renting a room there went to work in the morning came home ill an hour later and also vanished The neighbor next door came for a brief visit was seen by her housekeeper rushing home through the woods from an upstairs window and she like the others was never seen again Representation of Places Peter Bosselmann, 1998-03-21 People live in cities and experience them firsthand while urban designers explain cities conceptually In Representation of Places Peter Bosselmann takes on the challenging question of how designers can communicate the changes they envision in order that the rest of us adequately understand how those changes will affect our lives New modes of imaging technology from two dimensional maps charts and diagrams to computer models allow professionals to explain their designs more clearly than ever before Although architects and planners know how to read these representations few outside the profession can interpret them let alone understand what it would be like to walk along the streets such representations describe Yet decisions on what gets built are significantly influenced by these very representations A portion of Bosselmann's book is based on innovative experiments conducted at the University of California Berkeley's Visual Simulation Laboratory In a section titled The City in the Laboratory he discusses how visual simulation was applied to projects in New York City San Francisco and Toronto The concerns that Bosselmann addresses have an impact on large segments of society and lay readers as well as professionals will find much that is useful in his timely accessibly written book

The Yellow House Sarah M. Broom, 2019-08-13 A NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER WINNER OF THE 2019 NATIONAL BOOK AWARD FOR NONFICTION A brilliant haunting and unforgettable memoir from a stunning new talent about the inexorable pull of home and family set in a shotgun house in New Orleans East In 1961 Sarah M Broom's mother Ivory Mae bought a shotgun house in the then promising neighborhood of New Orleans East and built her world inside of it It was the height of the Space Race and the neighborhood was home to a major NASA plant the postwar optimism seemed assured Widowed Ivory Mae remarried Sarah's father Simon Broom their combined family would eventually number twelve children But after Simon died six months after Sarah's birth the Yellow House would become Ivory Mae's thirteenth and most unruly child A book of great ambition Sarah M Broom's The Yellow House tells a hundred years of her family and their relationship to home in a neglected area of one of America's most mythologized cities This is the story of a mother's struggle against a house's entropy and that of a prodigal daughter who left home only to reckon with the pull that home exerts even after the Yellow House was wiped off the map after Hurricane Katrina The Yellow House expands the map of New Orleans to include the stories of its lesser known natives guided deftly by one of its native daughters to demonstrate how enduring drives of clan pride and familial love resist and defy erasure Located in the gap between the Big Easy of tourist guides and the New Orleans in which Broom was raised The Yellow House is a brilliant memoir of place class race the seeping rot of inequality and the internalized shame that often follows It is a transformative deeply moving story from an unparalleled new voice of startling clarity authority and power Migration, Settlement, and the Concepts of House and Home Iris Levin, 2015-11-19

How do migrants feel at home in their houses Literature on the migrant house and its role in the migrant experience of home building is inadequate This book offers a theoretical framework based on the notion of home building and the concepts of home and house embedded within it It presents innovative research on four groups of migrants who have settled in two metropolitan cities in two periods migrants from Italy migrated in the 1950s and 1960s and from mainland China migrated in the 1990s and 2000s in Melbourne Australia and migrants from Morocco migrated in the 1950s and 1960s and from the former Soviet Union migrated in the 1990s and 2000s in Tel Aviv Israel The analysis draws on qualitative data gathered from forty six in depth interviews with migrants in their home environments including extensive visual data Levin argues that the physical form of the house is meaningful in a range of diverse ways during the process of home building and that each migrant group constructs a distinct form of home building in their homes houses according to their specific circumstances of migration namely the origin country country of destination and period of migration as well as the historical economic and social contexts around migration Books to Build On E.D.
