Keep resisting my dear
The day you stopped resisting
And the thrill of this game ends
That's the day you should fear.
That's the day i will leave you...

The Diary Of A Seducer:

The Seducer's Diary Søren Kierkegaard, 2007-08-02 Johannes is an aesthete dedicated to creating the possibility of seduction through the careful manipulation of young women. He stealthily pursues the innocent Cordelia until she becomes increasingly drawn to him. But when she is ready to give herself completely, she realizes she may have got everything wrong. United by the theme of love, the writings in the Great Loves series span over two thousand years and vastly different worlds. Readers will be introduced to love's endlessly fascinating possibilities and extremities: romantic love, platonic love, erotic love, gay love, virginal love, adulterous love, parental love, filial love, nostalgic love, unrequited love, illicit love, not to mention lost love, twisted and obsessional love.

The Seducer's Diary Søren Kierkegaard, 1997 In the vast literature of love, The Seducer's Diary is an intricate curiosity, a feverishly intellectual attempt to reconstruct an erotic failure as a pedagogic success, a wound masked as a boast, observes John Updike in his foreword to Søren Kierkegaard's narrative. This work, a chapter from Kierkegaard's first major volume Either/Or, springs from his relationship with his fiancée Regine Olsen. Kierkegaard fell in love with the young woman ten years his junior, proposed to her, but then broke off their engagement a year later. This event affected Kierkegaard profoundly. Olsen became a muse for him, and a flood of volumes resulted. His attempt to set right in writing what he feels was a mistake in his relationship with Olsen taught him the secret of indirect communication. The Seducer's Diary then becomes Kierkegaard's attempt to portray himself as a scoundrel and thus make their break easier for her. Matters of marriage, the ethical versus the aesthetic, dread, and increasingly the severities of Christianity are pondered by Kierkegaard in this intense work.

The Diary of a Seducer Søren Kierkegaard, 2009 An intriguing investigation into love and manipulation from Kierkegaard's masterpiece Either/Or.

Diary of a Seducer Søren Kierkegaard, 2006-02-20 Diary of a Seducer records Johannes's discovery of a girl with the Shakespearean name Cordelia, whom he sets out to control. Intricately, meticulously, cunningly, the seduction proceeds. No detail is too small to escape Johannes. She sits on the sofa by the tea table, and I sit on a chair at her side. This position has an intimate quality and at the same time a detaching dignity. Less erotic than an intellectual depiction of seduction, Diary of a Seducer shows the casuist Kierkegaard in what he characterized as the aesthetic mode. A new introduction by Michael Dirda puts this influential novella into high relief.

Kierkegaard C. Stephen Evans, 2009-04-09 This clear, readable introduction to Kierkegaard presents him as a thinker with powerful answers to the questions which philosophers ask.

Speech and System Peter Bornedal, 1997 In this investigation, creative writing and philosophy are shown to be specific types of language games, distinct from speech as used in communicative interaction between individuals. The author deals with thinking, speech, and systems respectively. I-Thinking is understood as a soliloquy preceding any kind of creative activity and any kind of writing. The author analyses thinking as a subject's listening to its own voice, with a split between I and me, close to Derrida's notion of difference as a condition for the production of meaning. II-Analyzing, with reference to Benveniste, Austin, and Searle, what speech is, the author deduces the so-called pragmatic subject.

in contrast to the first section's reflective. In its elementary speech act the pragmatic subject does constitute itself in rudimentary ways. III In dealing with the product of reflective activity the author finds the so-called textual inconsistency or logical aporias inherent in any logical or pseudo-logical system to be in line with Gödel's incompleteness theorems and he rejects the tendency to use deconstruction to understand these aporias as is usual in Western metaphysics. The author's philosophical position is closest to that of Paul Ricoeur and Jacques Derrida but on crucial issues he advances his own ideas on the relationship between speech and writing also establishing a criticism of metaphysics that may be more radical than what has previously been developed. Kierkegaard's Thought Gregor Malantschuk, 2015-03-08

Kierkegaard's pseudonymous authorship has baffled readers; his apparent capriciousness making it difficult to determine his position at a given point and to understand his work as an organic whole. Gregor Malantschuk's study based on careful reading of Kierkegaard's journals, papers and texts cuts through the authorship problem to clarify the philosopher's key ideas, see the comprehensive plan of his work and make intelligible the dialectical coherence of his thought. Discussing Kierkegaard's dialectical method and his use of it from Either/Or to the final Two Discourses, Professor Malantschuk shows how coherently Kierkegaard set the individual works in place so that even the conflict between the principal pseudonyms Climacus and Anti-Climacus serves to elucidate his major philosophical ideas. Stewart, 2014-10-28. While Kierkegaard is perhaps known best as a religious thinker and philosopher, there is an unmistakable literary element in his writings. He often explains complex concepts and ideas by using literary figures and motifs that he could assume his readers would have some familiarity with. This dimension of his thought has served to make his writings far more popular than those of other philosophers and theologians but at the same time it has made their interpretation more complex. Kierkegaard readers are generally aware of his interest in figures such as Faust or the Wandering Jew but they rarely have a full appreciation of the vast extent of his use of characters from different literary periods and traditions. The present volume is dedicated to the treatment of the variety of literary figures and motifs used by Kierkegaard. The volume is arranged alphabetically by name with Tome I covering figures and motifs from Agamemnon to Guadalquivir. The Seduction of Pessimism in the Novel Tom Ribitzky, 2024-10-31. The Seduction of Pessimism in the Novel: Eros, Futility and the Quarrel with Philosophy explores the novel as a response to the Platonic myth that narrates the rift at the core of our being Eros is supposedly the consolation for this rift but the history of the novel documents its expression as one of frustrated desires neuroses anxieties and cosmic doom As if repeating the trauma from that original split in Plato a split that also divides philosophy from literature the novel treats eros as a site of loss and grief from the medieval romances to Goethe Emily Bront Proust Mann Woolf D H Lawrence and Nabokov The pessimism that emerges from this eros tells us something fundamental about who we are something that only the novel can say At a time when both education and leisure are increasingly ignoring the novel's imperative to sit with ambiguity complexity and contingency and as we are hurtling toward a bleak future of climate catastrophe and political instability the novel is one of the last bastions of humanity even as it is quickly being eroded

Diary of a Seducer David A. Blyler, 1996      Living Poetically Sylvia Walsh, 1994-08-19 Living Poetically is the first book to focus primarily on Kierkegaard's existential aesthetics as opposed to traditional aesthetic features of his writings such as the use of pseudonyms literary techniques and figures and literary criticism Living Poetically traces the development of the concept of the poetic in Kierkegaard's writings as that concept is worked out in an ethical religious perspective in contrast to the aesthetics of early German romanticism and Hegelian idealism Sylvia Walsh seeks to elucidate what it means in Kierkegaard's view to be an authentic poet in the form of a poetic writer and to clarify his own role as a Christian poet and writer as he understood it Walsh shows that in spite of strong criticisms made of the poetic in some of his writings Kierkegaard maintained a fundamentally positive understanding of the poetic as an essential ingredient in ethical and religious forms of life Walsh thus reclaims Kierkegaard as a poetic thinker and writer from those who would interpret him as an ironic practitioner of an aestheticism devoid of and detached from the ethical religious as well as from those who view him as rejecting the poetic and aesthetic on ethical or religious grounds Viewing contemporary postmodern feminism and deconstruction as advocating a romantic mode of living poetically Walsh concludes with a feminist reading of Kierkegaard that affirms both individuality and relatedness commonalities and differences between the self and others men and women for the fashioning of an authentic mode of living poetically in the present age      Søren Kierkegaard's Theory of Stages and Its Relation to Hegel Heidi Liehu, 1990      Seducer's Diary Spataro Roberto Nicodemo (author), 1901      L'Esprit créateur, 1971      The Seducer as Mythic Figure in Richardson, Laclos, and Kierkegaard Betty Becker-Theye, 1988

Santrač, 2005 Jean Baudrillard is one of the outstanding representatives both of French poststructuralism and postmodernism Because of radical criticism it was not possible for him to establish a logically coherent theoretical system the philosophical aspects of his work are specifically merged therefore into a critical asystematic fragmentarism which is the subject of this work From the critique of the political economy of the sign through critiques of rationalism reality progress truth history to the theory of simulation Baudrillard's specific para concepts fatal strategy symbolic exchange seduction hyperreality pataphysics etc are constantly fragmentarily present in the development of his thought These concepts are Baudrillard s attempt at disengagement from modern philosophy and his new unsystematic postmodern view of reality in general In the analysis of binary metaphysical oppositions reality simulation subject object knowledge seduction history end radical irrational nihilism metaphysics God pataphysics Baudrillard is radically exclusive through the arbitrary preference of one over the other concept his ideas it is possible to conclude that these dualistic antagonisms are also paradoxically compatible in his system this compatibility is very close to the irrational mysticism of this thinker This book is a clear and lucid presentation of this unique brand of postmodernism to English speaking scholarship
