The Degenerates:

The Degenerate Muse Robin G. Schulze, 2013-09-19 The early twentieth century marked a dramatic shift in the American conception of nature. This book analyzes the ways in which the scientific recasting of American nature as an antidote for degeneration influenced work of important modernist writers Harriet Monroe, Ezra Pound and Marianne Moore.

Degeneration Max Simon Nordau, 1895    Munsey's Magazine, 1896    The Construction of Monstrosity in Victorian Gothic Literature. A Mirror of Contemporary Fears Mona Baumann, 2020-11-05 Bachelor Thesis from the year 2020 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1 3 University of Frankfurt Main Institut f r Anglistik und Amerikanistik language English abstract This paper will shed light on the different construction of monsters used by Bram Stoker in Dracula and Robert Louis Stevenson in The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde mirroring contemporary fears and social circumstances. Although both monsters can be associated with the discourse of degeneration and consequently otherness and parasitism Dracula functions as an external monster while Hyde represents the monster from within. The faces of Gothic villains are prime examples for degenerate evil Bram Stoker's Dracula and Robert Louis Stevenson's The Strange Case of Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde both show the implementation of the fear of degeneration in Gothic literature. As Judith Halberstam claims monsters are meaning machines explaining that their bodies and behaviours function as symptoms of or a response to various cultural historical or political problems including gender, class, race, nationality and sexuality. She states that monsters and the Gothic fiction that creates them are therefore technologies narrative technologies that produce the perfect figure for negative identity. Monsters have to be everything the human is not and in producing the negative of human these novels make way for the invention of human as white male middle class and heterosexual.    Report of the Special Committee of the Assembly Appointed to Investigate the Public Offices and Departments of the City of New York and of the Counties Therein Included New York (State). On one hand the authors want to present a new technique called parabolic approximation which is a proper generalization of the classical compactness methods first developed by DeGiorgi with his Harmonic Approximation Lemma.

This last result initially introduced in the setting of Geometric Measure Theory to prove the regularity of minimal surfaces is nowadays a classical tool to prove linearization and regularity results for vectorial problems. Here the authors develop a very far reaching version of this general principle devised to linearize general degenerate parabolic systems. The use of this result in turn allows the authors to achieve the subsequent and main aim of the paper that is the implementation of a partial regularity theory for parabolic systems with degenerate diffusion of the type  $\partial_t u - \operatorname{div} A \nabla u = 0$  without necessarily assuming a quasi diagonal structure i.e. a structure prescribing that the gradient non linearities depend only on the explicit scalar quantity The Popular Science Monthly, 1895 The New Review, 1895 Science John Michels (Journalist), 1895.
