Makowski, 1990-01-01 The distrust and hatred of matrimony is a recurring theme in Western literature In this volume Wilson and Makowski show that in their repeated imagery continuous themes and rhetorical devices misogynous texts closely parallel and reflect economic and demographic shifts and theological and legal innovation Analysis of the literature demonstrates a link between the growing secularism and careerism of the late middle ages and the reduction of women s social status and public options Equally in God's Image Julia Bolton Holloway, Constance S. Wright, Joan Bechtold, 1990 Equally in God s Image Women in the Middle Ages is a volume of essays presenting the argument that with the coming of the universities women were excluded in an apartheid of gender from education and power It discusses the resulting paradigm shift from Romanesque to Gothic describing the images which women had of themselves and which the dominant male society had of them We meet in the pages of this book medieval women in their roles as writers pilgrims wives anchoresses and nuns at court on pilgrimage in households and convents The volume as a Distant Mirror for ourselves today seeks to present ways in which women then fulfilled the roles society expected of them and the ways in which they also subverted through entering into textuality the expectations of the dominating culture
