UPNG Em i Go We? Paraka M. Pena, 1998 Personnel Training and Education, 1989 Working as Indigenous Archaeologists George Nicholas, Joe Watkins, 2024-09-30

Working as Indigenous Archaeologists explores the often contentious relationship between Indigenous and other formerly colonized peoples and Archaeology through their own voices. Over the past 35 plus years the once novel field of Indigenous Archaeology has become a relatively familiar part of the archaeological landscape. It has been celebrated, criticized and analyzed as to its practical and theoretical applications and its political nature. No less important are the life stories of its Indigenous practitioners. What has brought some of them to become practicing archaeologists or heritage managers? What challenges have they faced from both inside and outside their communities? And why haven't more pursued Archaeology as a vocation or avocation? This volume is a collection of 60 autobiographical chapters by Indigenous archaeologists and heritage specialists from around the world, some community based, some academic, some in other realms, who are working to connect past and present in meaningful and especially personal ways. As Archaeology continues to evolve, there remain strong tensions between an objective science oriented evidentiary based approach to knowing the past and a more subjective relational humanistic approach informed by local values, traditional knowledge and holistic perspective. While there are no maps for these new territories, hearing directly from those Indigenous individuals who have pursued Archaeology reveals the pathways taken. Those stories will provide inspiration and confidence for those curious about what lies ahead. This is an important volume for anyone interested in the present state and future of the archaeological discipline. Papua and New Guinea Journal of Education, 1969-02

Science in New Guinea, 1989 A New Guinea Bibliography, 1984 Minami Taiheiyō Kenkyū, 1992 Papua New Guinea Journal of Education, 1988 The University of Papua New Guinea Vincent Lynn Meek, 1982

A case study of the first 10 years of the University of Papua New Guinea is presented with attention focused on the function, structure and character of a new university in a newly independent nation. The analysis is based on the three issues of adaptation, conflict and change, and the case study is designed to test how well past social theories fit the reality of a new university in a Melanesian environment which is characterized by oral transmission of culture, an agricultural economy until recently, and its history as a colony. The establishment of the University, difficulties with the Australian Department of Territories, early university leaders and various kinds of struggles are described. Additional considerations include the contribution of staff to the educational and political life of the colony and new nation, problems facing new students, social problems arising from bringing together sometimes antagonistic people, and the special problems of the small minority of women on campus. Finally, the complex organization of the university and the external environment are examined, including the challenge of reconciling the problems of local relevance with the demands of international standards of scholarship. The methodological and theoretical frameworks for the analysis are also discussed. SW A New Guinea Bibliography: Economics, Commerce,
