Gaia James Lovelock, 2000      The Anthropology of Human and Planetary Health Merrill Singer, 2025-03-19 This text introduces undergraduate and graduate students in health or environment related classes to the mounting crisis of syndemics through the lens of planetary health The concept of syndemics developed by the author and now in wide use across multiple health related disciplines focuses attention on the adverse synergistic interaction of two or more diseases or other health conditions promoted or facilitated by social and or environmental conditions The planetary health framework is an emerging holistic medical rethinking of our understanding of health It seeks to identify the safe environmental limits within which humanity and other species can flourish on our increasingly imperiled planet This book offers useful conceptual tools and frameworks for developing a comprehensive understanding of approaches needed to address the health risks of our changing world The unique coverage of this book is its careful examination of ecosyndemics around the world in light of the growing recognition that on a heavily disrupted planet a narrow focus on human health is inadequate Under these circumstances a comprehensive planetary health framework is needed This approach seriously considers the interconnected nature of human health animal and plant health and the health of the world's ecosystems Highly descriptive with numerous cases of the planetary health crisis the textbook is written in a student friendly and accessible way and is an important resource for coursework across environment and health related subjects      Planetary Health Humanities and Pandemics Heike Härting, Heather Meek, 2024-03-29 This volume explores the variable meanings and discourses of historical and contemporary pandemics to rethink theories and practices of planetary health Rather than conflating the planetary with anthropogenic climate change planetary geo engineering or the global the volume elaborates a version of planetary health humanities that invites decolonial creative and pluridisciplinary modes of thinking and sees health as a complex non anthropocentric process that moves within the multiple scales of the planetary The volume offers new historical trajectories as it considers an eighteenth century woman author's readings of plague intersecting narratives of nineteenth century lactation and vaccination and the forgotten biopolitics of NASA's Planetary Quarantine Program It offers accounts of decolonial and oracular planetary health insists that the role of literature in the health humanities is not merely instrumental explores viral and planetary co inhabitations and scrutinizes inequities faced by global health workers The volume also includes discussions of cybernetic addiction and the complex entanglements of humans microbes and bees Its concluding interview addresses the concrete impact of current planetary transformations on individual and collective health Bringing together multiple disciplines the volume will be of interest to students and scholars in health humanities literary studies postcolonial studies medical history and narrative medicine      The Gaia Atlas of Cities Herbert Girardet, 1996 In the last 100 years global urban populations have expanded from 15 to 50% Urban growth patterns are changing the face of the earth and the condition of humanity This atlas addresses these key issues and analyses the problems of expanding cities      The Relationship Between Health and Environment Under the Lens of Climate Change: Insights for Policy Makers Paolo Vineis, Greta Colombi, 2025-02-14 The past year 2023 has been so far the hottest on track and sure enough it won't keep this record long. We have already reached almost 1.5°C above the preindustrial average and the recent first Global Stocktake carried out at COP 28 which was held in Dubai last December 2023 revealed that we still need to enhance dramatically the efforts at the international level to meet Paris Agreement's goals. The impacts of climate change along with other forms of anthropic pressures not only involve devastating consequences for ecosystems biodiversity and the resilience of the socio-ecological systems we live in but as it is emerging from the latest trends in scientific research it poses under serious threat also public health and well-being.

Living Space Claire Freeman, Michelle Thompson-Fawcett, 2003 Upon their arrival in New Zealand from the UK the editors noted that the concept of sustainability and its application to the built environment had been relatively underdeveloped in New Zealand's academic environment. By bringing together eleven theoretic and pragmatic contributions from those who have been working on the issue they hope to jump start the debate in the island country. Concurrent theories are identified and described. Issues of diversity and liveability in settlements are discussed and a synthesis section attempts to meld both theoretic and practical concerns.

Counterculture Green Andrew G. Kirk, 2007 For many it was more than a publication it was a way of life. The Whole Earth Catalog billed itself as Access to Tools and it grew from a Bay Area blip to a national phenomenon catering to hippies do it yourselfers and anyone interested in self-sufficiency independent of mainstream America now known as living off the grid. In recovering the history of the Catalog's unique brand of environmentalism historian Kirk recounts how Stewart Brand and the Point Foundation promoted a philosophy of pragmatic environmentalism that celebrated technological achievement human ingenuity and sustainable living. Kirk shows us that Whole Earth was more than a mere counterculture fad. At a time when many of these ideas were seen as heretical to a predominantly wilderness based movement it became a critical forum for environmental alternatives and a model for how complicated ecological ideas could be presented in a hopeful and even humorous way From publisher description The Chrysalis Economy John Elkington,2001-08-08 Examines the tension between evolving societal values and different models of value creation in the process of business transformation at the beginning of the 21st century Identifies the steps world class companies like BP Ford Shell and Unilever are taking towards true corporate citizenship including new forms of portfolio management sustainability accounting and reporting and radically different forms of corporate governance Computing Anticipatory Systems D.
