The Prairie Wife:

The Prairie Wife Arthur Stringer, 1921 The Prairie Wife Arthur Stringer, 2020-09-28 Splash That s me Matilda Anne That s me falling plump into the pool of matrimony before I ve had time to fall in love And oh Matilda Anne Matilda Anne I ve got to talk to you You may be six thousand miles away but still you ve got to be my safety valve I d blow up and explode if I didn t express myself to some one For it s so lonesome out here I could go and commune with the gophers This isn t a twenty part letter my dear and it isn t a diary It s the coral ring I m cutting my teeth of desolation on For every so long I ve simply got to sit down and talk to some one or I d go mad clean stark staring mad and bite the tops off the sweet grass It may even happen this will never be sent to you But I like to think of you reading it some day page by page when I m fat and forty or what s more likely when Duncan has me chained to a corral post or finally shut up in a padded cell For you were the one who was closest to me in the old days Matilda Anne and when I was in trouble you were always the staff on which I leaned the calm eyed Tillie on the spot who never seemed to fail me And I think you will understand But there s so much to talk about I scarcely know where to begin The funny part of it all is I ve gone and married the Other Man And you won t understand that a bit unless I start at the beginning But when I look back there doesn t seem to be any beginning for it s only in books that things really begin and end in a single lifetime Howsomever as Chinkie used to say when I left you and Scheming Jack in that funny little stone house of yours in Corfu and got to Palermo I found Lady Agatha and Chinkie there at the Hotel des Palmes and the yacht being coaled from a tramp steamer s bunkers in the harbor So I went on with them to Monte Carlo We had a terrible trip all the way up to the Riviera and I was terribly sea sick and those lady novelists who love to get their heroines off on a private yacht never dream that in anything but duckpond weather the ordinary yacht at sea is about the meanest habitation between Heaven and earth But it was at Monte Carlo I got the cable from Uncle Carlton telling me the Chilean revolution had wiped out our nitrate mine concessions and that your poor Tabby s last little nest egg had been smashed In other words I woke up and found myself a beggar and for a few hours I even thought I d have to travel home on that Monte Carlo Viaticum fund which so discreetly ships away the stranded adventurer before he musses up the Mediterranean scenery by shooting himself Then I remembered my letter of credit and firmly but sorrowfully paid off poor Hortense who through her tears proclaimed that she d go with me anywhere and without any thought of wages imagine being hooked up by a maid to whom you were under such democratizing obligations But I was firm for I knew the situation might just as well be faced first as last So I counted up my letter of credit and found I had exactly six hundred and seventy one dollars American money between me and beggary Then I sent a cable to Theobald Gustav so condensed that he thought it was code and later on found that he d been sending flowers and chocolates all the while to the Hotel de L Ath n e the long boxes duly piled up in tiers like coffins at the morgue Then Theobald s aunt the baroness called on me in state She came in that funny old fashioned shallow landau of hers where she looked for all the world like an oyster on the half shell and spoke so pointedly of the danger of international marriages that I felt sure she was trying to shoo me away from my handsome and kingly Theobald Gustav which made me quite calmly and solemnly tell her that I intended to take Theobald out of under secretaryships which really belonged to Oppenheim romances and put him in the shoe business in some nice New England town The Prairie Wife Arthur Stringer,1920 The Prairie Wife: a Novel Arthur John Arbuthnott Stringer,1921 The Prairie Wife Stringer Arthur,2016-06-23 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts 1 We have not used OCR Optical Character Recognition as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos 2 In books where there are images such as portraits maps sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images so they represent accurately the original artefact Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy The Prairie Wife Arthur Stringer,2006-12-01 The Prairie Wife (Classic Reprint) Arthur Stringer,2017-09-17 Excerpt from The Prairie Wife But there s so much to talk about I scarcely know where to begin The funny part of it all is I ve gone and married the Other M an And you won t understand that a bit unless I start at the begin ning But when I look back there doesn t seem to be any beginning for it s only in books that things really begin and end in a single lifetime About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works The Prairie Wife, Etc Arthur John Arbuthnott STRINGER,1921 The Prairie Wife [microform] Arthur Stringer,1998 A Reader's Guide to the Novels of Louise Erdrich Peter G.
