Chinese Science; Explorations of an Ancient Tradition Shigeru Nakayama, Nathan Sivin, 1973 Some readers will be drawn to this survey of traditional Chinese science by the idea that humanity has evolved more than one tradition of natural science that deserves to be taken seriously as a study in itself Others will wish to explore the possibility that by reconstructing and imaginatively adopting the viewpoint of so different a culture they might become more critical in judging what aspects of the West's Scientific Revolution grew out of local pressures and prejudices rather than out of the inner necessities of science itself The volume falls naturally into two complementary parts The first provides the reader with perspectives on the work of Joseph Needham whose monumental multi volume Science and Civilisation in China is so largely responsible for the growing awareness on the part of inquiring people everywhere that the Chinese technical traditions reached a high level and that the birth of modern science and technology owes a great deal to them Needham's work has often been cited as the greatest one man historical compilation of the twentieth century Needham himself has contributed an opening Meditation to Chinese Science in which he recapitulates the motive forces and ideals behind his life's work of which the historical study of Chinese science is only one aspect Derek J de Solla Price then provides biographical material on Needham and gives an account of the genesis and evolution of his magnum opus Needham's central concern with the effect of social and economic factors on the rate of scientific and technological change is examined by A C Graham Shigeru Nakayama demonstrates through a study of all of Needham's publications the presence of a connected philosophy of history and of science that Needham evolved as a young biochemist concerned with the organization and development of life The more numerous essays in the second part of the book extend Needham's work of mapping out the areas of Chinese science venturing into provinces hitherto terra incognita The contributors cover the Chinese world view astronomy optics pharmacology and medicine In particular they discuss the Chinese concept of nature in an essay written by Mitukuni Yosida the development and limiting factors on the development of Chinese astronomy Kiyosi Yabuuti the Mohist optics of ca 300 B C A C Graham and N Sivin the use of elixir plants as described in the pharmaceutical manual of the adept Lu Ch un yang Ho Peng Yoke Beda Lim and Francis Morsingh Man as a Medicine the traditional therapy using drugs derived from the human body William C Cooper and N Sivin and the early history of anesthesia in China and Japan Saburo Miyasita The book closes with a critical bibliography citing books and articles in Western languages N Sivin The book is the second in The MIT East Asian Science Series Alchemy, Ancient and Modern Herbert Stanley Redgrove, 1969 Dr Redgrove gives us a brief account of alchemistic doctrines both in their relation to mysticism and to physical science Then he gives us a short history of Alchemy in the form of biographies of the most noted alchemists Proceedings of the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge Jurisdiction of Alabama, Ancient Free and Accepted Masons, 1875 傅卫申 Fuwei Shen, 1996 This book covers the major events and developments throughout the several thousand years of cultural relations between China and the outside world from remote antiquity to 1949 The author uses vivid description ancient legends archaeological data and Chinese and foreign literature all carefully chosen and verified The main focus of the book includes three aspects first an introduction of the historic bridge and passages of the East West cultural exchange second an explanation of the scope and scale of such exchanges and third an analysis of the inter action of Chinese and foreign cultures and a look at the future of Chinese culture BOOK JACKET *Catalog of the Sidney M.
