The Islamic Space:

The Islamic Space William Corlett, John Moore, 1980 Examines the ways in which the sacred writings of Islam deal with fundamental questions Islamic Area Studies with Geographical Information Systems Atsuyuki Okabe, 2004-08-02 In this volume the contributors use Geographical Information Systems GIS to reassess both historic and contemporary Asian countries and traditionally Islamic areas This highly illustrated and comprehensive work highlights how GIS can be applied to the social sciences With its description of how to process construct and manage geographical data the book is ideal for the non specialist looking for a new and refreshing way to approach Islamic area studies Making Muslim Space in North America and Europe Barbara Daly Metcalf, 1996-12-18 Focusing on the private and public use of space this volume explores the religious life of the new Muslim communities in North America and Europe Unlike most studies of immigrant groups these essays concentrate on cultural practices and expressions of everyday life rather than on the political issues that dominate today's headlines The authors emphasize the cultural strength and creativity of communities that draw upon Islamic symbols and practices to define Muslim space against the background of a non Muslim environment The range of perspectives is broad encompassing middle class professionals mosque congregations factory workers in France and the north of England itinerant African traders and prison inmates in New York The truism that Islam is a religion of the word takes on concrete meaning as these disparate communities find ways to elaborate word centered ritual and to have the visual and aural presence of sacred words in the spaces they inhabit The volume includes 46 black and white photographs that illustrate Muslim populations in Edmonton Philadelphia the Green Haven Correction Facility Manhattan Marseilles Berlin and London among other places The focus on space directs attention to the new kinds of boundaries and consciousness that exist not only for these Muslim populations but for people from all backgrounds in today's ever more integrated world

The Muslim Minority in Germany. Mosques as a place of radicalisation and integration Inga von der Stein, 2018-08-13 Essay from the year 2017 in the subject Orientalism Sinology Islamic Studies grade 10 language English abstract On the 19th December 2016 Tunisian national Anis Amri drove deliberately with a hijacked truck into the Christmas Market at the Breitscheidplatz in Berlin killing 12 and injuring more than 50 people In the morning he had been visiting the Mosque Fussilet 33 which according to the police was a meeting point for Islamists The terror attack triggered a public outcry and led to an increasing securitisation of Islam in public debates Mosques as a contact point both for Muslims in Germany and for those which come as migrants thus form a special point of interest to be able to understand which values and beliefs influence Muslims in Germany To this end this paper investigates the potential of Mosques for both radicalisation and integration It firstly analyses the factors that facilitate radicalisation and secondly offers ideas on how to use mosques for integration particularly pointing out the special responsibility of Imams To offer a well balanced analysis this paper employs quantitative sources such as official data by the Ministry of Migration and Refugees and qualitative sources including speeches held at the German Islamic Conference and the work of Islamic Studies scholars This paper argues that Mosques are of great influence as they form a contact point for Muslims in Germany and offer guidelines and lifestyle advice Mosques thus have great potential as a place for radicalisation but also as a place for integration Mosques can be used by Salafists and radical returnees from fighting to promote a radical agenda To use the positive potential for integration the role of the imam is of particular significance here it is essential that the imam is integrated both into his home and host society in order to function as a bridge Furthermore the potential of women has to be further expanded to enable them to take on more active roles in shaping the community This paper is structured as followed firstly an overview is given on the emergence of Islam in Germany the organisation and the role of Mosques and the function of Imams In the analytical section the potential for radicalisation is first explored followed by an outline of the potential for integration including ideas of how to fully use this positive potential
